Daily HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS

By Dr. Otey

With the possible exception of religion there is no department of life around which there centers more mystery or in which there are more conflicting theories and contrasting practices than in the department of our sexual life.

It is not so much that there is a lack of knowledge on this subject, but a lack of distribution of it.

The average lay reader who attempts to sail the immense sea of our literature on sex without a chart and compass soon runs into so many shallow places, eddies, counter currents and what to him are uncharted rocks that he is confused and discouraged from further study. He will have mental indigestion when he attempts to digest a literary salad of articles by reformers, legal experts, social cranks, moral and mental pervers and the myriads of conflicting teachings of the various and sundry metaphysical cults and the multitudinous religious sects.

He is blinded to the true facts of physiology and hygiene and finds himself floundering in a sea of superstition.

If one has it in mind to acquire some real knowledge, either specific or general, he should take his problems to some one who has a sane conception of the subject and whose opinions are not influenced by his likes and dislikes, preconceived notions and hearsay nor by religious or sentimental scruples, but are founded on facts as unbiased scientific investigation has revealed them. Reading should be confined to books that are free from piffle. I will be glad to advise, or recommend suitable books. You may arrange for consultation by phoning Glendale 2201.

COMMENT That's All

Simple Style Is Best
Jazz Start, Jazz At End
Take Children To Country Helps Solve Sewer Problem
—By Gil A. Cowan—

TOM McNAMARA who pictures Krazy Kat in the papers, is declared to be one of the foremost artists of the age.

He takes his pen in hand and with a couple of deft strokes proceeds to paint a whole desert, or a clouded sky, or a river.

It is simplicity of style that gives him mastery of his art. And in writing the same needs be acquired.

Nowadays Sturges Hildebrand, writing in current issues of Harper's Monthly, describes a sailing voyage with equally deft strokes.

Every word adds to the picture of the boat nosing in and out of the harbors of the Mediterranean, outliving squalls and sailing along like an uncaged bird with a weather it good.

It seems like comparing the ridiculous with the sublime in taking McNamara and Hildebrand's works for examples, but our readers should learn simplicity at its best. The simple statement of fact is so much preferred.

The simple home with its deftly handled shrubbery is so much more dear to the eyes of the admirer of true beauty.

Really, it would be a complexity of things that would gradually force simplicity to the standard for art. The writer knows of a painter who tries to put every color into desert canvases. Indeed, he succeeds to a remarkable degree, but the people do not appreciate the work. They fail to see the beauty of the simple, which is simple and understandable.

The pencilled plans of a home always are more alluring than the house completed by the builder.

So what we need to cultivate in our minds, in our actions, in our completed works is simplicity.

Simplicity in the studies of the schools would make for more rational minds. We wonder at the jazz age, but does it not come as a direct result of our jazz education system that runs the youngsters hither and yon?

From the very start in their school work they are introduced to the phonograph and marched around and played out. By the time they are ten they crave excitement in their daily lives.

When they are 15 they demand something jazzy morning, noon and night.

It is a terrific strain we place upon the young folks. By the time they are ready for college they are nervous and fidgety and sophisticated far beyond their years. And let us state here that these exceptions prove the rule.

Really, it would be a blessing if this old world of ours had a few dumb-bells in its midst. It would be glorious to find someone at 40 awakening to a duty to perform. The way it is now the man who reaches 40 will be ready to retire, his mentality seared by the flame of early accomplishment.

When you look at the wan faces of those residents of the ghetto of Chicago or the mill district of Pittsburgh or other eastern centers it is no wonder that they'll have hopes of coming to California.

In Baltimore, for instance, there is nothing but block after block of tenements with their white door stoops to break the monotony. The dance hall on Sunday night, the church on Sunday and workdays the rest of the week is the routine.

There may be happiness there, but certainly no inspiration. There may be love, but it is confined physically at least, to the world brought to the feet of the mountains where the people could climb to the heights and get the view.

As it is, most of us are living in the valley where the shadows are cast. We grope around in the dark for education and recreation. And such of it as we have is sapping the moral fibre—not because we desire it, but because it fools us.

With the governor's signature on the Glendale sewer bill this city may now proceed to solve its problem by entering into a contract with Los Angeles to handle the outfall while Glendale provides a trunk line for that north section of the sister metropolis through which the Glendale sewer must pass.

The governor was more than glad to do this favor and the writer was personally called to the governor's office to receive the glad news that Glendale's particular piece of legislation was approved.

Assemblyman Weller has well served his constituency in getting this measure steered through a stormy session of the state legislature.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Musical Program
Musical talent and accomplishments comprise one of the biggest assets of Glendale's growth and recognition as the fastest growing city of its size in the United States. Glendale is not only blessed with a group of talented musicians, but also with organizations of music lovers, who are keenly interested in music as an educational and cultural influence in the lives of young and old.

There are seven organizations in the city sponsoring the development of musical talent and entertainment, and last night the people were afforded the opportunity of hearing a most creditable program presented in the auditorium of the Glendale Union high school by representatives of these seven musical organizations at the annual "Federation Night" of the Glendale Music club.

The school auditorium was filled with Glendale music lovers for the program introduced by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Music club.

It was a talented presentation, demonstrating the activities of the juvenile, junior and senior musical organizations. Each number was artistically presented and heartily received and all combined in a well-balanced program of more than usual worth.

Those taking part were members of the Glendale Union high school orchestra, directed by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson; Betty Hagood, Julia Draper, C. A. Parker and Marguerite Chappell of the Juvenile Music club; Elizabeth McFadden and Hazel Linkogel of the Junior Music club; members of the Glendale Union high school girls' glee club, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker; Mesdames Helen Graham Cole, Frank Arneson, Howard Smith and Margaret of the Novin Quartet, members of the Glendale Music club and Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club; Signor E. A. Faggioli and Madame Teodora Wisniewska of the Glendale Music club; and members of the Madrigal club, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Wright.

Four departments were organized last night by the federation consisting of an artist registering bureau, teachers' round table, scholarship fund committee, and a department for the development of composers. These departments will be of considerable aid in the development of musical talent in Glendale.

The scholarship fund will be used for the education of worthy students along musical lines. Miss Hazel Linkogel, talented violinist, will be assisted by this department in order that she may attend the conservatory in Chicago for a scholarship for study under Anser, one of the world's greatest violinists.

Through the courtesy of Miss Helen Reynolds, whose father, W. H. Reynolds, of 910 Kenneth road, is a member of the Sunset Canyon Country Club, the members of the music section of the Glendale City Teachers' Club and their guests enjoyed an afternoon and dinner at the club Friday of this week. A number of the party motored up at an early hour and enjoyed a dip in the swimming pool, while others took a hike up the beautiful trails in the canyon.

Dinner was served in the banquet hall at 7 o'clock, with covers laid for the presiding hostess, Miss Helen Reynolds; Miss Alice Lookabaugh, president of the club; Miss Ada Salstrom, Miss Daisy Kearns, Miss Agnes Tupper, Miss Ethel Smith, Miss Gladys Sharpe, Miss Carolyn Almsworth, Miss Elsie Brennenman, Miss Ethel Culbertson, Mrs. Elsie Harwood, Mrs. Irene McReynolds, Miss May Cornwell. Guests were Miss Vera Sinclair, Miss Mary Rich, Miss Helen Buck, Miss Mary Collins, Mrs. Crosby.

Observe Birthday
The fifth birthday anniversary of Dorothy Mae Peterman was celebrated by a most charming party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Peterman, 1625 South Glendale avenue, on Friday afternoon. Twenty-five little guests had been invited by dainty little invitations issued some days previous and on their arrival found a long table spread on the lawn under the trees, beautifully decorated in a pink and green color scheme. Candelabras of pink roses in floral baskets were placed at each end of the table while the center was occupied by a pink candy basket with sprays of plumosities therein.

A number of little favors, novelties, "snapper" caps and candy baskets were at each little guest's plate. The birthday cake was decorated with five pink candles and tiny pink candies. The decoration had tiny little umbrellas shading it and the animal crackers stood on their own legs on the wafers.

Many pretty gifts were received by the little hostess. Mrs. Peterman was assisted by Mrs. H. W. Orton and Mrs. Kay.

Those helping Dorothy to celebrate her birthday were Mrs. Kay, her kindergarten teacher, Betty Jane Barnfield, Virginia Middlecom, Junior West, Helen Franklin, Charlotte Goldsborough, Mildred Jones, Joy Madsen, Christine Proctor, Norris Small, Jack Buttery, Frank Carr, Richard Davenport, Dickie, Lynn, Dean, Dean Kline, Carl McComb, Bobbie Reavis, Allan Schwarzkopf, Rosan Lopez, Jane Lopez, June Yaeger, Betty Orton, Bobby Lopez, Frances Virginia Greenaway and Margaret Jean Peterman.

The afternoon was spent playing kindergarten games.

Birthday Party
One of the prettiest birthday parties this season was given Wednesday by Mrs. Ray H. Phillips of 320 West Dryden street, for her little daughter, Doris, who celebrated her seventh birthday.

The attractive nursery of the Phillips home had been artistically redecorated for the occasion. The unique draperies, curtains and coverings were made of rose French gingham elaborately designed, with life-sized black cats with cunning pink bows and bells. Kewpie dolls bedecked in their new pink spring dresses and attractive paper dolls also added to the beauty of the room.

A beautiful white birthday cake adorned with pink candles formed the centerpiece for the large, low kindergarten table decorated in pink and white. A cunning white Teddy Bear dressed in pink, hung from the low nursery chandelier.

During the afternoon children's games were played and prizes awarded, after which refreshments were served.

Those present were Martha Ann Baynes, Mary Newhouse, John Newhouse, Carroll Mill, Gladys Mitchell, Jean Baul Busby, Meriam Trott, Catherine Trott, Virginia Pierson, Jean George Holland, Buster Haig, Josephine Smith, Gretchen Smith, Fern Carr, Betty Lou Pickett, Dorothy Pickett, and the guest of honor, Doris Rae Phillips; Mrs. Virginia Freeman, Mrs. H. B. Mix, Jane Dickerson, and the hostess, Mrs. Ray H. Phillips.

Tenth Birthday
Yesterday was a most happy occasion for Jean Lyons of 511 North Jackson street, for it was her tenth birthday and in celebration her mother Mrs. Robert T. Lyons arranged a birthday party.

She invited a group of Jean's little friends and together they enjoyed the afternoon with games and music.

Late in the afternoon a birthday lunch was served on a prettily decorated table. A May pole with gay streamers leading to each place was the centerpiece. In addition there were tiny bouquets of pastel shaded sweet peas and individual baskets for nuts and candies. The favors were balloons and snappers.

Before Jean's place was the birthday cake, lighted with ten candles.

Seated about the table were Jean and Marjorie Langland, Helen McCormick, Mildred Effe, Fern Johnson, Helen Sloan, Russell and Robert Newton, Clarita, Francis and Lucy McCormick and Lottie Hudson.

Drama Section
The Drama Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club held their regular business meeting yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse in the tea room, with Mrs. R. E. Chase, curator of the section, in charge.

Sufficient funds have been raised by the section to take care of the entire indebtedness of the stage equipment and on Monday a committee will take up the contract which will be presented to the club as a gift from the Drama Section.

Special guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Barton.

Following the business meeting, a social afternoon was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Farewell Party
The telephone operators of the local telephone office entertained in the parlors of the office Wednesday night, commencing with Miss Pearl Tucker and Miss Mah Stranne. This was a surprise and farewell party combined inasmuch as Miss Tucker leaves the fifteenth for her home in Iowa, and Miss Stranne leaves Sunday for her home in Seattle, Washington.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presenting to the guests of honor many useful and beautiful gifts. The rest of the evening was devoted to playing games and a social time, and later dainty refreshments were served. There were about forty operators present.

Much Activity Shown In Glendale Realty

Announcement was made this week by the combined Masonic bodies of Glendale of the purchase of the southeast corner of Maple and Central avenues, and they are now planning for the immediate construction of a magnificent home on there, costing approximately $200,000. The local lodge is strong and harmony prevails in the building plans on their magnificent site, it is declared. This is just another step in the forward progress of Glendale, as the fastest growing city in America.

Activity in Glendale real estate has been especially marked the last few days. This is especially true of South Brand business property, where sales aggregating over $322,000 have been made in the last ten days. Among the large ones is the corner of Brand and Colorado for $150,000; the corner of Elk and Brand for $65,000, and the corner of Lomita and Brand for $51,000, while several other contemplated deals are hanging fire. Some of these sales were handled under the multiple listing system, under which the Glendale Realty Board is operating.

The Spanish riding school in Vienna, the only one of its kind in the world, is still kept up, although only twenty-eight horses are left to go through their paces.

Tuesday Club Assists In Near East Relief

The support of Tuesday Afternoon club women in the annual bundle day Tuesday, May 8, of the Near East Relief activities is urged by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, and Mrs. William Hunter, philanthropy chairman.

The appeal from them states: "Women and children are dying daily from the effects of exposure, having been driven from their ancestral homes by the barbarous Turk, and forced to live for months under the deteriorating misery and distress of refugee conditions. These need no material garments, but the hundreds of thousands who remain must be clothed or they will perish."

"The Glendale board of education has designated the city schools as bundle stations. Will you please send your bundles to the nearest school next Tuesday? For the sake of defenseless childhood and womanhood give this appeal the full support of your leadership."

MONTROSE

MAP OF SECOND UNIT APPROVED

City Council of Glendale Accepts Tract; Lots to Have Big Demand

The map for the second unit of Sparr Heights was officially approved at the last meeting of the City Council at Glendale.

Official action was taken also to change the name of Verdugo Canyon road to Tujunga boulevard. This branches off to the west of Verdugo road about a quarter of a mile north of the commencement of Sparr Heights. It continues westward to the base of the hills, where it connects with Los Angeles street and so provides a connection with Tujunga. Owing to the similarity of its former name with Verdugo road, a great deal of confusion has resulted.

The second unit of Sparr Heights consists of forty acres immediately south of the first unit, most of which has now been sold. It is bounded on the west by Verdugo road and on the south by Tujunga boulevard.

Directly across Tujunga boulevard from the second unit is the estate of the Oakmont Country Club. This will make it extremely popular with confirmed and inveterate golfers, who will have the links at their doorsteps.

Although Tujunga boulevard is now a dirt road, plans have been formulated to have it suitably paved as one of the main highways of the Sparr valley. It is flanked on the north side by a twenty-four-foot parkway, which is to be appropriately landscaped. It is likely that this will be planted with trees in the near future.

Second Unit $440,000
The second unit contains the site for the new community center building, which is now nearing completion, and the site of the new grammar school. These two reasons alone make this property among the most valuable in Sparr Heights.

The value of the second unit is appraised by the realty firm of Barnum & Walters Company at $440,000. It has been subdivided into about 250 lots. Business property ranges in price from $1,600 to $2,000, while the residential property ranges from $1,250 to $3,000. Restrictions provide that duplexes may be erected, but that they must have single entrances so that their exteriors will resemble single bungalows.

Ocean View avenue has now been cut through the first and second units from Honolulu avenue to Tujunga boulevard. This will provide one of the shortest routes between Montrose and the new community center and the proposed new school. It will also provide another link between the up-country and Glendale.

Work is commencing at once upon the laying of curbs and sidewalks on all streets in the second unit. This will require about two months. Meanwhile, street work will continue. Grading is being done under the direction of Contractor Peter L. Ferry of 614 East Acacia avenue. Streets will be paved as rapidly as possible.

A large number of lots in the second unit have been sold already, and neither H. E. Barnum nor M. Walters anticipate that much of it will remain long unsold. One of its attractions is its closeness to Glendale.

New Tracts On Market
Two new tracts on La Canyada boulevard southeast of Alta Canyada will be put on the market Sunday by the realty firm of Turner & Carson of Montrose.

La Canyada Heights consists of six acres and La Canyada acres consists of twelve acres, which is now occupied by a young lemon grove. These have been subdivided and will be sold in quarter and half acres.

This is all view property, at an altitude of over 1,700 feet, and commands a panoramic view of much of the property adjacent. It also overlooks Flintridge, Pasadena and the Verdugo hills to the north of Glendale.

"This property will have reasonable restrictions," remarked Frank Turner. "It will be the cheapest property on the market in this section."

Glendale Pupils Win Shakespearean Honors

Glendale Union High School's dramatic department won honors yesterday afternoon in Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, at the annual Shakespearean festival of Southern California.

Two scenes from "Much Ado About Nothing" were presented under the direction of Harold Brewster. One of them was "The Trial Scene" and the other was "Dogberry's Charge to the Watch." Because of the scenes selected members of the casts were all boys. The following participated: Ed Stockbridge, George Fuit, George Jansen, Allen Pollock, Thomas McClellan, Loren Patrick and Caryl White.

About 150 students attended from Glendale Union High school.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"West of Chicago" is the title of the snappy film showing at the Glendale Theatre today. Charles Jones is the star, and cute little Renee Adoree is the feminine lead. The story, which is from the pen of George Searle, recounts how "mad" Judson Malone, owner of the prosperous Circle M, gets madder still when he finds that several hundreds of his choicest cattle and horses are missing. Maybe you think you can imagine the rest—but Manager William A. Howland of the Glendale Theatre bets you can't. In addition to the above, night's program includes five of standard vaudeville, every calculated to get down on some particular grouch and loose. And starting tomorrow (Monday), "Where The Pavement Ends," a Rex Ingram production made at the Metro studios, comes to the Glendale Theatre.

EAGLE ROCK ASSOCIATION TO AID DEVELOPMENT

Form Organization at Big Mass Meeting; Re-Zoning Is Considered

Two important meetings took place last night in Eagle Rock, one with a civic character and the other with the active spring house-keeping campaign that will culminate a week from Tuesday, May 5, with the turning over of the city to Los Angeles.

At the Women's Twentieth Century club, a large mass meeting was held under the auspices of the Sunrise Civic club, President C. Mattison, presiding. The meeting culminated in the organization of the Eagle Rock Improvement association, a body that in future will represent all sections of the community and present a plan for local development, plowing the message with the great southern metropolis.

The other meeting was a session of the Eagle Rock Realty board, held at the city hall, president W. R. Johnson presiding, and B. Brown, secretary, at which the matter of re-zoning was taken up with a representative from the Los Angeles Planning commission. The mass meeting at the Women's clubhouse brought out a large crowd and was featured by a splendid program arranged by Mrs. M. Runge. Among the fine numbers given was a solo by Mrs. C. Brown and a violin selection by Mrs. Christine Page Myers, with accompaniment by Mrs. A. R. Rose, and a group of vocal songs by George T. Valence.

Scout Court Meets

The district court of honor of the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout Council met at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, May 5, at the Eagle Rock Presbyterian church. It is announced by Ray B. Sanders, scoutmaster of the Eagle Rock troop, that the court will be presided over by William C. Wattles. About fifteen boys will be awarded merit badges and the number will receive patrol training corps certificates, scoutmaster's awards, and scout status. In addition, the first of the troop achievement tests having come to a close, prizes in this contest will be awarded.

As Rev. B. B. Weatherall, the pastor of the Presbyterian church, has been ill for some time, he will be able to attend the court. This court convenes four times a year, Scoutmaster Sanders explains, and is an important event in the Boy Scout program. To realize the present occasion, a special speaker has been obtained. James Orlie de Ropp, of Glendale, noted Russian lecturer and author. Her topic will be "Russia Crushed the Boy Movement and is Now Trying to Stifle the Christian Church."

Plan for Inspiration

It is hoped to make an inspirational affair long to be remembered by scouts and leaders alike. Scoutmaster Sanders, "and feel that those attending will be disappointed. Our plans include having with us the members of the Verdugo Hills council, the Roundtable, and it appears that this will be the largest court of honor in this district yet."

We are anxious to have the presence of the boys as well as the adults, and an invitation is extended to all the people of Eagle Rock to be with us Sunday afternoon, witnesses the working of these courts.

We extend the invitation, furthermore, to the women's clubs, organizations, American Legion and all others interested in and boys' work.

Glendale Team Will Meet San Fernando

The Glendale ball team journeyed to San Fernando Sunday, to the fast team of that city in the fourth contest of the league season. As neither team has yet a game, this contest should be "humdinger."

Glendale boys will sport new uniforms, Manager Heider announces. He is confident this will make them all the better. Heider himself will twirl for the team, with Shriver behind the plate. The rest of the line-up will be announced later.

W. Kellogg.

That said defendants, F. W. Kellogg, Thomas D. Watson, John Doe, Richard Roe and Henry Roe, are now, and at the time of the occurrence of the acts hereinbefore complained of, were the duly elected, qualified and acting Board of Directors of said Glendale Printing & Publishing company.

VI. That the true names of defendants John Doe, Richard Roe and Henry Roe are to the plaintiff unknown, and that for said reason by such fictitious names, and the plaintiff prays leave of the court upon discovery of the true names of said defendants to substitute the same for such fictitious names.

VII. That plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, alleges the fact to be that defendant, F. W. Kellogg, is now, and for more than one year, continuously last past, has been a director and the holder and owner of four-tenths of the capital stock of the Express Publishing company, a corporation, and that during said period aforesaid said defendant, F. W. Kellogg, has been and now is general manager of the business of said Express Publishing company, and that said corporation is now, and at all times herein mentioned, was the printer and publisher at the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, of a newspaper, with at least one issue daily, except Sunday, under the name of Los Angeles Evening Express.

VIII. That the plaintiff is the owner of and engaged in the business of printing, publishing and vending at the City of Glendale, County of Los Angeles, State of California, a newspaper having a general and daily, except Sunday, circulation in said city, county and state, and elsewhere, particularly in the said City of Glendale, and known as The Glendale Evening News; that by the use of said name in said business the plaintiff has created and established a profitable newspaper business having a wide patronage, and a substantial monetary value; that said newspaper has been established since the year 1905, and has been printed and published by the plaintiff as a daily newspaper since, to wit: September 1, 1913; that by diligent effort and attention to business said plaintiff has built up a large circulation for said newspaper and a subscription list thereof of over one thousand names, and that said subscription list or list of subscribers to said newspaper does now, and at all times herein mentioned has substantially contributed to the permanent profit derived from said business; that the publication of said newspaper and the business of the publication thereof has increased in value and in activity from a small weekly newspaper to a large and profitable daily newspaper employing over fifty adult persons and having a weekly payroll of $2500, and which said newspaper and the business of conducting the same now yields, and for a long time heretofore has yielded, a substantial profit from the circulation of said newspaper, and from the sale of advertising therein.

IX. That in connection with the publication of said daily newspaper, to wit: The Glendale Evening News, the plaintiff possessed and maintained, particularly at the time of the occurrence of the acts hereinbefore complained of, a record of its daily circulation showing among other things, to wit: The total number of copies printed and distributed each day, together with the amount of display, classified, legal and total advertising space, the amount of reading material, together with the number of subscriptions added or discontinued each day.

X. That the said Los Angeles Evening Express, and the said Glendale Daily Press are now, and for more than six months last past have been circulated together in the City of Glendale, County of Los Angeles, State of California, by the printers and publishers thereof, and under some clubbing arrangement, the exact particulars of which are unknown to the plaintiff; that said clubbing arrangement, and under said management of defendant F. W. Kellogg, and for the purpose of creating a false impression as to the size and extent of the circulation of said Glendale Daily Press, and the Los Angeles Evening Express, both of said newspapers have been, and for the past six months, continually offered and furnished to subscribers for the price of one, and that subscribers to either of said newspapers in Glendale are furnished with a copy of the other without further or additional expense; that the Los Angeles Evening Express is furnished and delivered to all subscribers of the Glendale Daily Press, and that said newspapers are jointly distributed.

XI. That plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, alleges the fact to be, that for the purpose of attempting to further increase the circulation of said Glendale Daily Press and the Los Angeles Evening Express, and for the purpose of wrongfully obtaining the subscription list of the Glendale Evening News, and for the purpose of making a wrongful use of the same, and with the intent to deprive plaintiff of its said circulation records, as aforesaid, for the month of April, 1923, and with the malicious intent to injure the plaintiff in his business as publisher of said Glendale Evening News, and to discredit and defame the plaintiff, and to minimize the value of said Glendale Evening News as an advertising medium, said defendants employed one Jennie Swenson to enter the office of plaintiff as a pretense, for the express purpose of surreptitiously and wrongfully purloining and obtaining from plaintiff for said defendants the subscription list of the subscribers to said Glendale Evening News, and for the further purpose of wrongfully and surreptitiously purloining and obtaining for said defendants, and permanently depriving said plaintiff of the same, the circulation records of said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923.

XII. That pursuant to said employment by said defendants, and at the request of said defendants, and particularly at the request and direction of said defendant Thomas D. Watson, said Jennie Swenson did seek to, and did, enter the pretended service of the plaintiff as a solicitor and correspondent for the Glendale Evening News on or about April 15, 1923, at the City of Glendale, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

XIII. That on, to wit: April 22, 1923, said Jennie Swenson, pursuant to the purpose and intention of said defendants, as aforesaid, surreptitiously and wrongfully obtained from the premises of the plaintiff at 139 South Brand Boulevard, in the City of Glendale aforesaid, upon which said Glendale Evening News was then and there being published, the said subscription list of said Glendale Evening News, and the said circulation records of said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, and as aforesaid, and upon such information and belief, alleges the fact to be, that said defendants, by the use of said name in said business, the plaintiff has created and established a profitable newspaper business having a wide patronage, and a substantial monetary value; that said newspaper has been established since the year 1905, and has been printed and published by the plaintiff as a daily newspaper since, to wit: September 1, 1913; that by diligent effort and attention to business said plaintiff has built up a large circulation for said newspaper and a subscription list thereof of over one thousand names, and that said subscription list or list of subscribers to said newspaper does now, and at all times herein mentioned has substantially contributed to the permanent profit derived from said business; that the publication of said newspaper and the business of the publication thereof has increased in value and in activity from a small weekly newspaper to a large and profitable daily newspaper employing over fifty adult persons and having a weekly payroll of $2500, and which said newspaper and the business of conducting the same now yields, and for a long time heretofore has yielded, a substantial profit from the circulation of said newspaper, and from the sale of advertising therein.

XIV. That said removal and delivery to said defendants of said subscription list, and said circulation records, was in fraud of plaintiff's rights, and against his wish, and entirely without the authority or consent of anyone acting for him or on his behalf.

XV. That it was no part whatsoever of the duties of said Jennie Swenson under the pretended service of the plaintiff, to have access to, or anything whatsoever to do with, said circulation records of said Glendale Evening News.

XVI. That said subscription list surreptitiously removed and delivered by said Jennie Swenson to said defendants was the general or subscription list of the subscribers to said Glendale Evening News, and which said list represented several years of continuous effort on the part of plaintiff and his employees in the said Glendale Evening News, and that it was no part of the duties of said Jennie Swenson in her pretended service of the plaintiff to have access to said general subscription list, and that although said Jennie Swenson had been employed by said plaintiff to solicit new subscribers, at said time she had not obtained over above three new subscribers to said Glendale Evening News, and that said list at said time, and place consisted of several thousand names.

XVII. That the plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, alleges the fact to be that the said defendants intended to, and unless restrained and enjoined by this Honorable Court, will solicit on behalf of said Glendale Daily Press and Los Angeles Evening Express, subscriptions from the said list of subscribers, and intend to, and will, endeavor to obtain the business and patronage in respect to said list of subscribers heretofore enjoyed by said plaintiff.

XVIII. That the said plaintiff has not received back, nor recovered, nor has anyone acting for him or on his behalf, the said subscription list for the month of April, 1923, nor surreptitiously removed by said Jennie Swenson and delivered by her to said defendants as aforesaid, and that said plaintiff has no duplicate of said circulation record or any other record or account of the matters and things contained therein, to the plaintiff's damage by reason of the matters hereinbefore set out in the sum of $10,000.

XIX. That the loss and damage to the plaintiff of said circulation records, and the deprivation thereof, was irreparable in the following respects:

(a) That advertising space in said Glendale Evening News is sold by the plaintiff, and is valued on the basis of the amount of average circulation; that without such records plaintiff cannot compute for himself, and is without definite knowledge or information as to the amount of the average daily circulation of said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, and without the information necessary to inform prospective advertisers on the subject.

(b) That it is the custom of advertising agencies to require sworn statements from the publishers of newspapers as to the amount of daily average circulation, and that on such sworn statements foreign advertising or advertising not arising in the immediate vicinity of said newspaper is placed by such advertising agencies, and that by reason of the loss of said circulation records plaintiff is deprived of seeking and obtaining the patronage of advertising agencies, and is now, and will continue to be, by reason thereof, greatly handicapped in obtaining foreign advertising.

(c) That in order for plaintiff to obtain for said Glendale Evening News, second-class mail privileges accorded newspapers by the United States postoffice, it is necessary for him to file semi-annual sworn statements of the average daily circulation of said newspaper, and that without such records it is impossible for plaintiff to file an accurate sworn statement, and that by reason thereof said plaintiff is in danger of losing said second-class mailing privileges in respect to said Glendale Evening News.

(d) That said record of average circulation constitutes a guide to the plaintiff for the future conduct of his business, and is particularly useful that he may have a comparative record of his business in order that he may gauge estimates of material and supplies required in his business, particularly accurate accounting had for the purpose of determining which departments of his business are operating at the least profit.

XX. That plaintiff is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, alleges the fact to be, that said subscription list of said Glendale Evening News, and that said circulation records, are now in the possession of said defendants, and that said defendants, unless restrained and enjoined by the order of this Honorable Court, will attempt to, and will, mutilate and destroy said circulation records for the purpose of preventing plaintiff from recovering the possession thereof, or that said defendants will, if not restrained by order of court, alter and falsify the same for the purpose of attempting to discredit and minimize before the public, the extent and volume of the circulation of the said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, and particularly by said alterations and falsification, to discredit and minimize the value of said Glendale Evening News as an advertising medium.

XXI. That plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the redress or prevention of the wrongs and grievances hereinbefore set forth; that each and all of said wrongs and grievances do now, and will hereafter, unless enjoined, cause plaintiff great and irreparable injury and damage for which pecuniary compensation would afford no adequate relief.

Rebekah Lodge's Hair Revue Presents Modes of Every Century

Lovely ladies of periods from Cleopatra's day to that of the 1923-model flapper, their hair dressed gorgeously by the talented Beauty parlor and wearing gowns that recaptured the grandeur of the past and reflected the triumph of the present, flashed their brief hour across the stage last night, at a brilliant dance given by the Rebekah lodge, in the Odd Fellows' hall.

Mrs. Lauretta Schweiters, president of the Rebekahs, presented a charming appearance in a complete golden transformation, dressed high in marceled effect, her gown of green net over silver indicating the crest of the present mode.

In vivid contrast was Miss Jackie Saunders, in a curly henna transformation, gowned as Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt.

And in between ranged types and modes modern and ancient. One of the most striking was Mrs. H. C. Smith, in a French court hair-dress of white, with a gorgeous court dress of yellow taffeta. Miss Bernice Koyser, with hair done in large ear-muffs and wearing the short skirt typical of the War Flapper, was another distinctive characterization.

Variety of Types

Following the War Flapper came the Grandmother, Mrs. Allen, her hair-dress of soft grey, wearing an old-fashioned dress and carrying a parasol. Then came a number of moderns, among them an Afternoon Trio, comprising Mesdames Pease, Hall and Esterly. There was a group of Glendale Union High School Girls, two Afternoon Butterflies, a Spanish Vamp and Rebecca at the Well (Biblical), and others.

Miss Mildred Vale appeared in a natural, curly, red-headed bob hair-dress, and Miss Lucy Strothers wore a "La Opera" marcel, with a modern evening dress, while Miss Larene De Motte exemplified a modern bob.

The last number in this brilliant Hair Fashion Revue was an ensemble.

The music for the dance that followed was furnished by Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra.

Wendt and White Chosen to Hurl for Local Nine in Sunday Game

The Glendale National Guard will tackle the Deaf and Dumb Baseball Association of Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon at the Park avenue baseball park, Park avenue and San Fernando road. The game will be called at 2:30 sharp.

A rare sight and a great treat will be given the local fans, according to Charley Brice, and a large turn-out is expected. The deaf and dumb boys play ball in their own peculiar way and are very fast, having an excellent record for this season.

Charlie Wendt and Dock White will pitch for the Guards and both of them seem to have added zest in the last month. Bacon, the batters. The home lineup will probably be Bacon, C. Wendt and White, P.; Kingsley, 1st; Mitchell, 2nd; Aggerson, short; McMillan, 3rd; Brice, Weetman, Allsley in the field with Sanders, Nelson and Franklin on the bench.

SECURES PRAISE ON DECORATIONS

J. S. Schultz Wins Honors
For Artistic Work in Stores and Homes

J. S. Schultz, who recently won the prize of the Glendale Art Association, as the most popular artist in the city, is responsible for the mural decorations in the Golden Spanish cafe, 111 South Orange street.

The decorations show on the north wall the Spanish city of Alhambra, with some of its ancient castles and mansions. On the south wall the motif continues, the scene drawing closer to the city, showing palatial residences of that day, with a pond in the foreground. The scene then continues through a garden to the entrance of the arena, where is depicted vividly the story of Carmen's defiance, and then the famous bull fight is shown as a finale.

Much Work Here
Mr. Schultz has decorated many residences and shops in Glendale, among the former the home of Frank Hester, at Central and Kenneth; that of W. E. Pelley, at 1824 Sierra avenue; and that of Mr. Arnold, at 720 Kenneth road.

Among the shops decorated by Mr. Schultz are the Court Motor Company's headquarters and the Brunswick shop, both on South Brand boulevard.

Mr. Schultz is at present at work on an Egyptian temple style tract office on Verdugo road, for the Haddock-Nibley Company, realtors. This structure will be of the Ramesses III period, frescoed inside and out, and will be one of the most unusual buildings in the city.

Mr. Schultz studied painting at the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, and at the Cooper Institute, New York. In addition to his commercial work, he does landscapes and portraits and will soon hold an exhibit at his studio, 102 West California avenue.

Hooper company, 222 East Broadway. "Mr. Lodge, general manager of the Vel-Vo company, has had many requests from automobile agencies and owners for a station in Glendale, and has acceded by locating Station No. 9 at my location here, where it has been in operation since the first of the week."

Mr. Belle, states Mr. Hooper, is in direct charge of the new Vel-Vo station, by reason of his having been with the manufacturers of "Vel-Vo High Grade Auto was slight.

NEED MILLION PLATES, IS ESTIMATE

Head of State Department To Give Order for Making Of Record Number

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Orders for the millionth California motor license plate will be given the Los Angeles manufacturing concern furnishing the state with this well-known enameled brace-brace Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the Motor Vehicle Department here, said in an exclusive interview today.

"The requirements plainly show that we will need the million plates by the end of the month of May," he said. "We will get almost immediate delivery and there will be no delay occasioned by the needs of the motoring public."

Every day in every way it seems that California is going to wheels. Motorcars and more motorcars are resulting from the prosperous condition in which the state finds itself at this season. New sales records are being established and there seems no limit to the purchase of automobiles.

From the various motor interests represented at the capital not only will cars come higher this summer, with the exception of a few of the most popular makes, but bus fares will be increased if the state places a tax or gross earnings fee upon the carriers.

Made Self-Supporting
Under the terms of the budget act, the Motor Vehicle Department made self-supporting and all fees, licenses, taxes, etc., will go to the maintenance of highways.

It is extremely necessary, according to political economists, that the traffic bear the burden of keeping in repair those roads which are the lifeblood of the state. Otherwise, bonds will pile upon bonds and the securities will represent a deficit on both the state and cities and counties.

Relative to a tax on motor cars, which is provided in Senator Arbutnot's 7 per cent license on their gross earnings, it is stated that this penalty is essential in view of deterioration of roads under the heavy motor transport.

Los Angeles county, it is said, could well afford to pay the eight on supplies to the oil fields instead of going to the expense of building new roads to place those destroyed. The freight charges now represent only one-third of damage done the Spring Malady Hits Motorists! It Is 'Hornitis'

"HORNITIS" is the name given by officials of the Auto Club of Southern California to a new spring malady which is apparently taking hold of the motorists of this section of the state.

It is the direct result of the bite by the "Tooter Bug" and affects automobile drivers in a most peculiar and irritating way, say Club officials.

As the sap of spring begins to flow with increasing velocity through the veins of the average auto driver, he is inspired to become kitchy in several ways, but if he is the victim of the Tooter Bug, his kitchiness attacks take on the form expressed by "hornitis."

Auto Club observers report that there is more unnecessary horn-blowing in southern California than in almost any other section of America. Perhaps it is because spring arrives here more gloriously than in any other part of the world, or perhaps because the Tooter Bug thrives more luxuriantly on California climate, but, at any rate, the amount of unnecessary horn tooting, shattering the languid air, is becoming too plentiful, according to complaints made by tourists to the motoring organization.

Don't toot your horn just for the pleasure of hearing it toot! Don't try to accelerate the movement of traffic by punching the stuffing out of your horn button. These two admonitions are contained in a philanthropic request for the saving of car-drums just issued by Automobile Club authorities.

If you have been bitten by the Tooter Bug, the best remedy at hand, it is advised, is a memory pad on which is written "Blow your horn only when it is necessary, and remember the sensibilities of your neighboring motorist."

MOTORS IN U. S.

The United States, with 12,281,445 motor vehicles, has a larger registration than the combined total of twenty-seven foreign countries.

REGISTERING RECORD IS SMASHED

780,000 Cars on Books of State; May Be Million By End of Year

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Concluding the rush season of the year with a heavier automobile registration than has ever before been recorded in a corresponding period, and with fees for the three months totaling nearly as much as the entire collections for last year, Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the State Motor Vehicle Department, announced today that he is reducing his staff to normal standards preparatory to a general reorganization of the department.

More than 100 temporary employees in the local office have been dropped from the payroll.

The motor vehicle superintendent stated that he does not anticipate making a severe cut in the Los Angeles motor vehicle staff, however, as this office has been literally swamped with registrations. Los Angeles county contributed largely to the greatly increased registration.

May Reach Million

The state at large has turned in automobile registrations totaling approximately 786,000 to date, Marsh affirmed, and the close of the year will find a registration of all motor vehicles in the neighborhood of 1,000,000.

Trucks registered thus far this year number 33,653 and motorcycles 9,926. Trailers numbered 8,376.

Fees collected during the first three months of the 1923 fiscal year, which started February 1, are as follows:

Automobiles	$7,425,024.07
Trucks	675,558.81
Motorcycles	20,443.05

This indicates that the increased number of automobiles represents an influx of new machines rather than second-hand cars. Marsh stated that transfers have dropped off sharply.

During 1922 the department collected $322,064 for transfers, while the return from this source during the first three months of the current year is but $71,238.

This indicates a decreased buying of second-hand and used cars and a large increase in purchases of new machines, the motor vehicle chief asserted.

DRIVE WITH CARE, GET EMBLEM

Careless and Thoughtless Motorist Is Cause of Most Accidents

In a last analysis of thousands of motor-vehicle accidents throughout this part of the state, the Automobile Club of Southern California will officially announce that recklessness and carelessness, rather than excessive speed are the main factors in bringing about auto casualties.

Recklessness and carelessness, coupled with extreme thoughtlessness, are the bugbears of safe driving motorists, declare Auto Club experts. Curb carelessness and thoughtlessness in observing California traffic rules, and recklessness and excessive speed will take care of themselves, it is pointed out.

General carelessness is catalogued in this vicinity as:

First—Failure to give correct arm signals.

Second—Cutting corners.

Third—Usurping the right of way when there is a question as to who has the right.

While it is the speeder who is blamed for the majority of fatalities, it is the thoughtless driver who is to blame for the greater portion of accidents in which motor cars are damaged and personal injuries sustained.

The Automobile Club, through its safety bureau, has instituted a campaign to cut down the number of accidents which might be labeled as "careless" or "thoughtless" by issuing a large number of windshield stickers which are to be used by southern California motorists who admit themselves as being careful and competent drivers. If you think you are a competent and careful driver, you can apply at the Auto Club for one of these artistic green-and-white windshield emblems and sign the card nominating yourself as a careful driver.

It is believed that the spread of "careful driving" propaganda in this way will go far to cut down the number of accidents outside of those caused by reckless and excessive speeding.

TO SHIP CAR ABROAD

The freight rate for shipping an automobile from New York to London, in a box, is 25 cents per cubic foot, which makes the charge vary from about $68 for a small car to $140 for a large one.

RE-BUILDING WORK NOW PLANNED

State Highway Commission To Start When Adequate Funds Are Provided

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Reconstruction of 1,500 miles of California highways, at least half in the extreme southern counties, will be begun by the State Highway Commission as soon as adequate funds are available, according to an announcement by W. F. Mixon, secretary of the board.

"Reconstruction is the vital problem at the present time," said Mixon. "If the money is at hand we propose during the next two years to rebuild and widen the whole of the 1,500 miles now in need of repair."

In any event work of rebuilding the Whittier boulevard in Los Angeles county will begin in the immediate future, according to Mixon, who has been gathering information on prospective revenues.

Amount Available

According to estimates made public by the senate, the gas tax and other income features of the measure proposed by Senator Arthur Breed of Pasadena will assure the highway commission a total of at least $18,000,000 a year. Under provisions of the law, half of this amount would be distributed among the several counties.

But, according to Mixon, the larger California companies have issued reports on 1922 business conditions which indicate that revenue from the gasoline feature of the Breed bill will fall short of the senate's estimate and that the total income cannot exceed $12,000,000.

Since half of the sum collected would be automatically turned over to the counties, the state would receive only $6,000,000 for highway purposes under the revenue returns cited by the oil corporations.

"It is practically impossible at this time," says the highway secretary, "to estimate accurately how much money we can expect under the Breed program. But if only $6,000,000 is obtained by the state, it will prove a difficult matter to accomplish necessary work."

TWO CAR TOTAL

While the United States has the greatest number of motor vehicles in the world, the Republic of Seychelles has the least number of any nation, with only two cars.

Call of Open Road Is Personal Invitation To Southland Motorists

THE Call of the Open Road is a personal invitation to be happy amid the unsurpassed outdoor wonders of Southland California. So says George T. Smith, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' Association.

And the answer to the call is the drone of the motor over the long, smooth ribbon of highway leading up hills, through valleys, past towns, past hamlets, into the green stillness of the great woods with their lakes of silver and their golden sunsets.

Trout are in the lakes and magic burns in the sunset—and in your tent at night, with the myriad stars of a clear heaven gleaming their message of peace and the air redolent of a fragrance that blends pine-cones, wild-flowers and the earthy, pungent odor of your smoldering camp-fire,—that is the answer to the call the open road sends out!

There are a thousand variations of the theme, but in each case the answer is the same. As Mr. Smith says, "Be she ever so humble, grease up that old bus of yours—or buy a new one, if you can afford to—and get out into the country. Tourists come from all over the world to see what is right at your very doors."

May 13 to 19 has been announced as official "Call of the Open Road" week and plans for a fitting observation of the time have been forwarded to automobile men throughout this section of the state.

Talented speakers will broadcast the "call" to the public from various radio stations; newspaper advertising columns will be employed; and merchants will cooperate with window displays which will further remind the motorist that Southern California's superb boulevards have been brought up to their highest degree of perfection and put at his service; while the many mountain, seaside and valley resorts are dressed in gala garb, ready to receive the large delegations who will thus escape for a while the pent-up life of city and town, freshening their spirits by ocean, mesa and canyon.

To the aggressive and far-visioned automobile men goes the main credit for this annual celebration which has come to be as far-heralded as the "Tournament of Roses" and the "San Gabriel Mission Play," advertising the Southland to thousands of tourists and visitors, in addition to inspiring additional thousands of natives to jazz up their old buzz-wagons and hit the trail.

All over Southern California, automobiles have forsaken the stuffy garage for the open road—and with their masters at the wheel and their families piled in the rear like a lot of happy kids (which in countless instances they are!), you will see them go purring along, bound for the open spaces and the green grass, the flowers and trees and birds, the fragrance, the peace, the joy of outdoors in the Southland.

SURFACE PROTECTION

Never permit the paint-work about a car to chip off, nor permit air and water to work their way into the material underneath. Paint protects the surface below it from the effects of moisture. This is particularly valuable on wheels, fenders and beneath the car.

WHEN STARTER LOCKS

When the gears of the electric starter become stuck, turn off the ignition switch, put in "high" gear and then gently rock the car backward and forward. This will release the starting motor gear from the flywheel gear and the starter will then turn the engine easily.

CALL OF OPEN ROAD DUE IN SOUTH

Formal Spring Opening to Take Place May 13 to 19, It Is Announced

The formal spring opening for motorists, announcing the arrival of the summer touring season and the nearness of vacation time, will be heralded again this year by the automobile men of Southern California in a "Call of the Open Road Week" celebration, May 13 to 19.

This was the announcement made by George T. Smith, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, and the news of the Open Road week plans have already been forwarded to automobile men in all parts of this section of the state by the main headquarters in Los Angeles.

The "Call of the Open Road" will be broadcasted to the public by talented speakers from various radio stations; newspaper advertising columns will be used to attract the attention of the public to the joys of motoring and merchants will co-operate with show-room decorations which will still further remind the automobile owner of the pleasures of mountain and seaside resorts.

Spring Opening

In fact, the "Open Road" week is simply a "Spring Opening" for the automobile trade and will be equally beneficial to merchants in other lines of activity who specialize on camping and outing equipment or special sport clothing.

To the aggressive motor men goes the credit for this annual celebration which serves to call the attention of the Californian, as well as the visitor, to the many pleasures of the outdoor life and the hundreds of places that are available for summer touring by the motor car owners.

Show windows will also flash "across" the message of the Open Road, pictures will be used to advantage to show beautiful California scenic spots hereabouts and nothing that will serve to emphasize the joys of the great outdoor life will be left undone.

For one solid week the automobile men are planning a series of features that will each in a different way serve to drive home the fact that California is the greatest touring land in the country and the world, and that the touring season is at hand.

TAKE AGENCY TO SELL TWO AUTOS

Smith & Howe to Represent Chandler, Cleveland
In Glendale

The announcement of the formation of a partnership between Bine J. Smith and H. F. Howe, under the style of Smith & Howe, 116 North Maryland street, is of more than passing interest to local motorists when it is known that they have been appointed agents for the Cleveland and Chandler cars in this territory and that they now have a number of cars in stock here, with the assurance from the factory that every demand they may make will be satisfied as promptly as possible.

Mr. Smith has been engaged in the used car business here for the last five years and has built a wide acquaintance which will stand him in good stead in his new venture. His partner, Mr. Howe, has been employed with the Glendale Motor Car Company here before embarking in business on his own account, and previous to coming here he had been in Seattle, where he had been associated with the firm that introduced the Cleveland into the northwest when it was placed on the market in 1920 and he had before that sold the Chandler cars.

Service Department
One department of the business to which special attention will be given will be the service branch, and an agreement that has been made with Smith & Terrill, 106 West Harvard, assures the owners of Cleveland and Chandler cars of the most efficient service possible, at the hands of two men who are admitted to be experts in their line. A large stock of parts will be carried in stock at all times to meet the needs of the owners of either make of car.

Business prospects, declare Smith & Howe, are excellent, and they can give quick deliveries on all models of either car, although there is a slight shortage at this time of some of the open models. This obstacle, however, will shortly be overcome, they have been assured, and all the requirements of their clients can be cared for promptly.

Attention to Brakes Is Urged on Drivers

Periodic brake examinations by car owners themselves is the cheapest and easiest measure for avoiding accidents and keeping out of trouble with the police.

Following are a dozen simple rules for keeping brakes in good working condition:

1. Adjust the brakes every thirty days.
2. Keep the right and left wheel brakes operating with equal pressure.
3. Keep the brake lining clear of oil, road grit and metal particles.
4. Clean the brake lining with kerosene once every two or three months.
5. Remove glazed spots on the brake lining by roughening the surface.
6. Tighten regularly all lock nuts and rivets to avoid loosening the turnbuckles and scoring the brake drums.
7. Keep the foot pedal and hand lever in proper position.
8. Test both brakes before starting.
9. Apply the brakes slowly.
10. Never let the tires slide.
11. Use the motor as a brake on hills.

SPECIAL BODIES ON HUDSON CARS

Famous Builders Turning Out New Designs for Latest Models

When your grandfather was a boy the firm of Biddle & Smart of Amesbury, Mass., were building fine custom carriages. Throughout the country they were famous for years as masters in body design and good workmanship. They have built the finest Hudson closed body types for years.

Now they are putting all their efforts, all their body-building knowledge, into one model—the all-aluminum Hudson sedan. Beautiful in appointments, mounted on the famous Super-Six chassis, it is the most beautiful Hudson ever built. The price is surprisingly low.

The Hudson coach is an exclusive new closed body design. It brings all the utility you can get in a closed car, and yet it costs but slightly more than the open models, says P. A. Kelley of the Kelley Motor Company, 228 North Brand, Hudson and Essex dealers. "It is durable and comfortable. Thousands of owners are proud to drive the coach. It is a great car—a closed Hudson car one can be proud of."

"As to the Essex car, it stays young because of its 'hidden values,' things that you and others might never notice, yet vitally important in the life of a car."

An unusually strong frame, and a motor that is acknowledged by both foreign and American experts to be the finest of its size. These are some of the 'hidden values' that have made the Essex chassis famous. They are the unseen qualities you get in all Essex models.

"They are the things that save you money, for they keep Essex cars in satisfactory service for years."

What to Do When Going by Livestock

Because of inexperience in handling livestock, the average motorist, ninety-nine times out of 100, does exactly the wrong thing to expedite his passage by or through livestock, declares R. M. Hagen, secretary of the California Cattleman's association.

By using the following rules, Hagen declares the motorist will be saved considerable time, fewer accidents will occur, and less livestock will be injured:

Meeting Livestock—Slow down. If the road is narrow, drive to one side at the widest available point and stop. Shut off the engine. Stay quietly in the machine. Do not blow the horn. Do not permit dogs to bark. Break up an orderly procession gains nothing.

Overtaking Livestock—Slow down. Do not blow the horn. Ask the man in charge to lead the way through. Drive to one side of the main group as much as possible. Do not yell. Do not permit dogs to bark. Never crowd where the chances of passing are negative. Breaking up an orderly procession gains nothing.

The psychology of domestic animals causes them to bunch when frightened. This bunching presents a solid wall of livestock to the motorist. Therefore, blowing the horn or allowing dogs to bark only delays passage. Livestock, when crowded squarely from the rear, will generally continue in the center of the road;

CARE IN MAKING FIRES IS URGED

U. S. Forester Sounds Warning to Campers Visiting Timber Regions

To those who intend to fare forth into the mountains after trout, bear, deer, or anything else, these warnings are respectfully dedicated.

While the campfire is gleaming, as the song writers say, and the trout that you have spent many weary hours trying to coax into your net is sizzling quite merrily, and the odor of fish and spring is in the air, and the trees are swaying gently with the aid of one of the well-known gentle breezes, there should be something else to think about.

And it is a matter that should be given careful consideration. It was of such grave importance that United States Forester R. M. Charlton went out of his way to see that The Evening News was impressed.

Rules Are Simple
The rules for campfires are very simple to remember.

To begin with, get a fire permit. If a ranger catches a person lighting a fire without a permit, that person is due for a fine.

The permit costs nothing, and any ranger or the forest service in the federal building will give them out.

Don't build the fire too close to shrubbery. The fire won't feel embarrassed or lonesome if it's out in the open.

After using the fire, pour water on it, then cover it with sand. If there's no water handy, cover the fire with sand, and if there is no sand handy, pour water on it. If neither is handy, cover it with dirt. And if there is no water, sand or dirt, you're not in a good location anyway, so don't build a fire there.

Charlton also said to remember that it's better to walk a half mile with a pail of water to put out a fire than it is to work twenty-four hours straight with a wet sack.

DOUBLE TAX PAID

Municipal authorities of Orange and East Orange, N. J., have each assessed taxes on an automobile owned by Mrs. Mary Bleeker. Her home is in East Orange and her garage, ten feet from the house, is in the town of Orange.

MAKE EYES WORK

It is impossible to "listen" at a grade crossing when riding in a closed car with the windows shut. Therefore, your eyes must do double duty. See that the tracks are clear in both directions before you attempt to cross.

MECHANICAL GOVERNOR

A bill was recently introduced in the New York legislature requiring that every motor vehicle be equipped with a mechanical governor that would prevent the cars from going more than thirty miles an hour.

TRAFFIC TO RIGHT

The slower the car is operated, the nearer it should be kept to the right-hand side of the road.

therefore, work quietly to one side of them. Crowding livestock into a run is usually costly haste, with no gain.

In meeting or overtaking livestock, above all else, slow down and proceed as quietly as possible.

CONCRETE ROADS CUT FUEL COSTS

Estimates Show Expense of Traction on Various Kinds of Highway

Estimates of automobile manufacturers place the number of cars of all types in operation in America last year at more than 11,000,000. One in every ten individuals in the United States is represented, comparatively, as an owner.

Almost every family, figuring on the same relative scale, would be affected by economic changes in motor operation. For that reason the lower cost of fuel consumption made possible by hard-surfaced highways is of dominant interest.

Actual tests made by several states show that the following difference in fuel consumption exists on three existing types of roads: Cost per ton mile for gasoline at 34 cents a gallon, on dirt road, $.0171; gravel road, $.115; concrete road, $.0077.

Thus the difference in pull required on concrete pavement means an actual saving in gasoline of $.0038 for every mile traveled.

Almost all motorists average 140 miles a week, or twenty miles a day. The majority of cars are of the "light type" and one-ton weight can be taken as a fair average for the car itself.

54 Cents Weekly
This would mean that in a week the car owner would save about

Repair Kit for Tubes Is Cheapest Insurance

Probably one of the most important accessories for every motorist to have in his car is a tube repair kit. It is very much like life insurance in that it is no good at all until needed. When it is needed it is indispensable. This fact is particularly true when tires are punctured many miles from any repair station. Considering the kit's small cost it is the cheapest insurance possible against country road delays and expense.

54 cents on gas and in a year's time would save $27.67 if it were possible for him to drive on nothing but concrete pavement all the time.

This seems like a small amount, but when it is applied to the industry as a whole it reaches tremendous totals. If all of the 11,000,000 automobiles in operation last year averaged only twenty miles a day and could have driven on concrete instead of gravel the money saved on purchase of gasoline alone would show the staggering total of $304,370,000.

This does not take into account the long stretches of dirt road which cost twice as much to drive over as on concrete.

Thus it is fair to say that old-type highways are costing the American motorist more than $250,000,000 annually on his gasoline bill.

He can drive thirty-one miles per ton per gallon on concrete, but only twenty-one miles per ton per gallon on gravel and fourteen on dirt.

State Park Movement Has Genuine Appeal

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The development of additional recreational spots for the people of the different states will be given impetus at a meeting of the national conference on state parks, to be held at Turkey Run state park, Indiana, May 7, 8 and 9, and which will be presided over by Judge John Barton Payne, former secretary of the interior, according to the National Motorists' association, which continues:

"Few movements of greater interest to motorists, to friends of the good roads movement, and the public generally could be given attention at this time than the one which Judge Payne and his associates have undertaken to develop. State parks are increasing in number slowly, but their mission dovetails in with that of the areas set aside for health and pleasure purposes by the federal government.

"It is not possible for as many people to visit the national parks as would like to do so, despite the tremendous increase in the number of such visitors since the automobile has taken its place as an appealing vehicle of transportation, therefore the state parks idea is now coming in for attention.

"A program of interest and value will be carried out at Turkey Run park in May, and a decided incentive to the purchase or development of areas as state parks is expected to follow. The N. M. A. is giving its full support to the movement which will succeed the more quickly as interest is taken in it by the motorists of the different states."

Rubber Sales Total Nearly Billion Dollars

That the rubber industry in the United States is approaching a billion dollar business annually is indicated in a statement by A. L. Viles, general manager of the Rubber Association of America. "Rubber products in 1922 amounted to $966,178,000," Mr. Viles said. "This volume of business indicates not only the rubber industry since the nation-wide depression of 1920-1921, but further the great development and importance of the industry today."

"A comparison of the two six months' periods of 1922 shows an increase in the number of persons employed in the industry from 110,104 to 146,330 and an increase in the sales value of the product of approximately ninety million dollars."

The figures for 1921 show 181,400 tons of crude rubber absorbed by the industry, compared with 289,921 long tons in 1922.

During the last six months of 1922 the automobile and motorcycle trade used 225,216,753 pounds of crude rubber and the sales value of these products alone totaled $267,823,005. The boot and shoe industry during this same period absorbed 14,390,000 pounds of crude rubber and produced products valued at $63,259,472.

BRAKE ADJUSTMENTS

To correctly take up the slack of the brakes, push the pedal forward about two inches and keep it in that position by means of a small block of wood. Tighten up the turnbuckle for the adjustment until the brakes are snug.

Bad Brakes on Cars Bring Heavy Fines

NEW YORK, May 5.—"A man driving an automobile which has defective brakes is as much an enemy of society as a gunman," declared Magistrate Simms in the New York city traffic court when he imposed fines ranging from $25 to $50 each on motorists who were arrested by the brake inspection squad of the Department of Public Safety. The fines were paid by the prisoners who were convicted of operating pleasure cars, taxicabs and motor trucks with bad brakes. In imposing the fines the court warned the accused that a second conviction would mean a term in the workhouse.

Results of a recent investigation in the borough of Brooklyn show that 80 per cent of all auto accidents are due to bad brakes.

CITIZEN POLICE FORCE

Approximately 100 citizens of Indianapolis have organized a citizen police force for rounding up automobile speeders and others violating the traffic laws. The identity of the members is unknown even to the members of the regular traffic department.

UNDERINFLATION

A tire run underinflated is more subject to a stone bruise or bruised blowout than one properly inflated, due to the fact that the indentation or stretching of the fabric will take place much easier when the tire is soft.

Colored snow storms were reported in the sixth century.

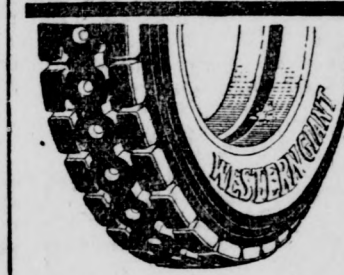

INCREASING IN POPULARITY

That the week-end camping exodus is growing in popularity these rainy spring days is evidenced by short trips to the mountains, beaches and countryside where tented cities spring up Saturday afternoons and as quickly disappear Sunday nights.

The fun of the open, with its dash of adventure and romance, is too strong for the average city dweller to resist, so with their cars laden down with camping equipment they start out for two full days of pleasure among the primitive places.

Away from business cares and worries they spend their holidays eating and sleeping out in the open and living next to the very heart of old Mother Nature.

With the complete and up-to-date camping equipment supplied at the Western Auto Company's stores, there is none of the bother and trouble experienced in the old days when it took weeks to get together the equipment necessary to spend a few days in the open and then without the perfect comfort the modern equipment affords.

THERE'S LURE IN OPEN SPACES

There is nothing like the Call of the Open Road—it comes every spring and lights all over each one of us. We all want to get out of doors. Now is the time. The dealers here are preparing to show you the latest in camping equipment. The Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers Association and the other Southern California dealer bodies are staging the big event, the week of May 13th to May 19th.

Exercise Care When Turning Toward Curb

Crossing in front of another car, so as to reach the curb, is a particularly dangerous habit, because the driver of the other car is not able to see the signal you give with your hand. He may not even notice the automatic signaling device, assuming your car is equipped with one. Any car which is proceeding along the center of the street is assumed to be either traveling faster than the rest of the traffic or preparing to make a left turn at the next street intersection. It goes without saying that the driver who intends parking should keep to the right and as near to the curb as possible, but should he find himself caught in the center of the street when he wants to park the logical thing is to stop and wait until the traffic to the right has passed by.

GREAT INCREASE

From 1910 to 1922 the number of motor vehicles in the United States increased 2000 per cent, and the increase in funds for road-building was only 400 per cent.

roads, according to a Los Angeles county supervisor, who advocates the greater use of steam and electric roads.
The 2 cent per gallon gasoline tax by Senator Arthur H. Breed will do much to equalize the cost of highway maintenance among the common car owners, each paying for the approximate use of the roads. Another bill passed the legislature permits the construction of toll roads, which should be a boon to the mountainous communities.

Many of the motoring reforms sought at this session of the legislature may fail, however, due to the legislative jam into which the opposition to the administration provisions have worked the solons into at this late day.

Expensive Lobby
It is estimated that the motor carriers and automobile associations are spending more than $1,000 a day in maintaining a lobby here—a factor more expensive than the state senate. They claim they are ready to spend $200,000 to defeat all bills adding to their taxes, it being their contention that highways are free to them.

However, it is threatened to throw them out of the railroad commission's control and make each bus line amenable to the county boards of supervisors through the territory they traverse. This would be tossing the motor carriers from the frying pan into the fire.

Few Realize Amount Of Fiber in Auto Tire

Probably very few people realize that when they see an automobile go by, if all of the cotton fibers that are in the four tires were placed end to end, they would cover 6,892 miles. In each 30x3 1/2-inch tire there are 1,723 miles of fiber.

In a 35x5-inch tire there are 30,330,000 feet of cotton fiber. In each cord which goes to make up cord fabric, there are fifteen twisted strands. Each cord is divided into three cables of five strands each. There are 650 inches or 18 yards of fiber in every inch of this yarn.

A standard make 5-inch cord tire has twenty to twenty-six cords per inch. The cords are similar to medium weight fishing line.

All cotton is subjected to very severe tests before it is placed into tires. Some tires, for example, use only long staple cotton. There is an average length of 1 1/2 inches to the fiber and it is so woven as to give a 28 per cent stretch.

WHEN FOOT SLIPS

To prevent the foot from slipping off the clutch or brake pedal, which usually becomes smooth through long wear, cut a piece of rubber from an old tire, the size and shape of the pedal, and have it bolted to the surface of the metal.

FORD'S PURCHASE METHOD FAVORED

Weekly Payment Plan Permits Prospective Buyers
To Secure Cars

The nation-wide announcement of the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan has been greeted enthusiastically everywhere, according to reports received by Jesse E. Smith, local Ford dealer. It is being accepted as a new and forward-looking move in the marketing of automobiles.

That it will benefit millions of families and have a most salutary effect upon the auto-buying public goes almost without saying, as it places something of a new light upon motor car ownership wherein the purchaser is able to avail himself of this modern necessity.

"For some time past Ford dealers have been selling cars and trucks upon what is known as the deferred payment plan in which the purchaser makes a substantial initial payment, secures his car and completes the payment for it in regular installments," says Mr. Smith.

"Now comes the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan which will make it possible for additional millions to own and operate motor cars, as under the terms of the Plan as little as $5.00 will start anyone toward the ownership of a Ford car, Ford truck or Fordson tractor. This initial payment, as well as all subsequent payments, will be deposited to the customer's credit in a local bank and draw interest at the regular savings rate.

"It extends to the whole family an opportunity to participate in the car purchase by permitting each member to contribute a small amount weekly to the Plan with the wholesome effect of inculcating thrift and also demonstrating the benefits to be received from regular and consistent accumulation of funds to spend for things desired."

Auto Trade Officers To Hold Convention

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—Four hundred automobile trade association secretaries and managers are expected to attend the first national conference in Chicago, July 23 and 24. The definite dates for the conference were announced today by the National Automobile Dealers' Association, which is arranging the conference. An advisory committee of association managers from St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago adopted the dates and outlined a program. Assurances have been received by the national association headquarters from more than 100 secretaries and managers that they will attend.

The big feature of the conference will be that the program will be made up entirely by association secretaries who have made noteworthy success in one or more major activities of the trade association programs.

The details of the program will be made known in a short time. Greatest source of fine-grained stone used in lithography has been the quarries at Solenhofen, Bavaria.

AUTO BUGS AND BUGGIES

By Wood Cowan

SALES OF BUICK AT HIGH LEVEL

April Beats Previous Record Established in March
By One Auto

The sales of Buick cars in Glendale in April reached the high water mark for the territory supplied by Tanner & Hall, Ltd., 237 South Brand boulevard, passing the previous record of March by one car, according to Ray L. Galvin, sales manager, who predicts that this is only the start of a string of record breakers, each one better and bigger than all previous figures.

The spring trade has set in with a rush and already the volume of buying is making itself felt in the Buick agency to a degree that is taken as a guarantee of their being able to surpass anything that has been done in the past. Mr. Galvin attributes the big demand for Buicks at this time to the realization of the motoring public of the inherent worth of the cars themselves, together with the service policy that cares for Buick automobiles from one end of the country to the other.

All models of the Buick line were eagerly sought by the buyers in this region, notably the new six-cylinder sport touring car, which, with its handsome red leather upholstery and its snappy style, has won a place in the favor of every motorist who has seen it.

GOOD PARKING HINT

A much better job can be made of parking a car of long wheel-base if, before backing, the driver will swing part way into his space and then steer out again. This puts the rear wheels nearer the curb.

UPHOLSTER NASH CARS IN MOHAIR

Angora Wool Employed for Rich Fabrics Used in Closed Models

When a woman knits a sweater for some one she especially cherishes she uses, or would like to use, Angora wool, for she knows that the long, silky fibre knits up beautifully and gives the finished product a certain fineness, warmth and durability that make it stand far ahead of ordinary fabrics. She realizes that the superior quality of the fleece of the Angora goat places this material in the front rank of all textiles.

This same Angora wool, made up in the form of a beautiful pile fabric, known as Mohair velvet, has been chosen by the Nash Motors company as the upholstery for their closed cars, and its superior qualities and its beauty and sanitary features differentiate it from all other materials used for this purpose.

Textile makers know that Mohair fabrics give a greater wearing surface than any other material, and government tests have shown that Mohair has two and one-half times the strength of wool. The pile on the Mohair fabrics remains standing, thus taking the wear on the ends, and Mohair, being more elastic than any other fabric, the pile speedily returns to a standing position, even when subjected to a repeated pressure. In a smooth surface textile the wear comes on the sides, so that a moderate amount of service friction soon causes the fabric to look fuzzy or bare in spots.

Mohair is Sanitary
The natural oil in Mohair remains inside the fibre, rather than on the outside, as in the case of wool, and this fact causes the peculiar lustre that marks Angora wool and makes it resemble silk. None of the original lustre is lost when the fleece is washed, scoured, steamed or dyed and the same materials with which Nash cars are upholstered are in constant use for high grade interior hangings and furniture upholstery.

One of the strongest features of the Mohair fabric is its sanitary nature, which permits the dust to settle into its fabric in such a manner that it cannot be removed by the hands or clothes, but that permits it to yield readily to air blast, brush or vacuum cleaner, or even to plain soap and water.

E. B. Sutton, local representative of the Nash Motor company, declares that much of the upholstery used in the Nash and Lafayette cars which the company manufactures runs as high in price as $30 a yard and that many of the firm's clients have purchased enough of it to make into rugs to go with their cars.

PUT GAS ON CLUTCH

When a leather-covered cone clutch sticks badly and becomes hard to release, pour gasoline over it repeatedly, letting it in and out, using every possible means to clean it thoroughly. Then let it dry for several hours and apply neatfoot oil on the leather. Block it overnight so that the pressure from the spring will not squeeze out the oil.

TIRES AND TUBES

When tire rims become rusted, rough particles of rust and scale act like sandpaper on the inner tube, which often results in a premature blowout due to a worn spot. By coating the rim with aluminum paint occasionally this can be prevented.

TELL BEST TIME TO DRIVE AUTOS

Most Accidents Happen in Daylight When Weather Is Good, Claim

BOSTON, Mass., May 5.—Motorists who have not given the subject detailed study probably believe the safest time to drive is in broad daylight and dry weather. Statistics show that it is safest to drive at dusk or night, and in rain, snow, mist or fog.

This is told by Frank A. Goodwin, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, in the American Mutual Magazine of this city. The publishers, an important insurance company, are conducting an effort to increase highway safety throughout the country.

The reason fewer accidents occur in bad weather and at night is, of course, because greater care is exercised. Which proves the company's contention that most accidents are preventable.

Weather Is Factor

Of the 522 fatal accidents involving automobiles that occurred in Massachusetts in 1922, writes Mr. Goodwin, 215 occurred in the daytime, thirty-one at dusk and 155 at night. In 444 cases the sky was clear, in thirty-two it rained, in twenty there was mist, in six fog and in four snow.

"The combined causes of snow and ice, mud and wet pavements," the reports, "only counted for 119 fatal accidents, 397 taking place on dry pavements."

Massachusetts' effort to solve the problem of accidents, points out the writer, has been made through such analysis and in taking steps to eliminate causes. For the reason a state law has been passed fixing the right of way on the highway. Drivers who come into a main street from an intersecting one must, for instance, yield the way to cars approaching from the right. They have the right of way of those approaching from the left.

Would Bar Drinks
Users of liquor are a danger against which the Bay State is fighting. Mr. Goodwin states: "The question of whether or not we should have had the Volstead act as a law of the land has nothing to do with the fact that no man who has a single drink of what passes for liquor nowadays has any right to drive an automobile upon the public highways. In 1919 we revoked and suspended 2,100 licenses in the state, 550 of them for intoxication. In 1922 we suspended 8,300, and 2,460 were of persons who were operating under the influence of liquor."

MEAN SOMETHING THERE

"Hookway," "Beggars' Roost" and "Porlock" mean nothing to the average American, but they are names to conjure with in England. They are hills—rough grades on which the trans-sea motor manufacturers try out their cars. To have gone over "Beggars' Roost" on top is like boasting that you toted a load of seven people over Torrey Pines or some other tortuous California grade on high gear.

MANY AUTO MAKERS

There are 106 makers of passenger automobiles in the United States, as compared with 123 last year. A year ago there were 159 models made by these factories, while today there are 156.

Will Set Out Trees Along Paved Roads

The states of Pennsylvania and Minnesota this year plan to encourage the planting of shade trees along their paved highways in unprecendented fashion. Thirty thousand trees, it is declared, will be used for this purpose in Minnesota alone. One objection heretofore to shade trees at the roadside has been that the roads did not dry out readily after rains, but that mud holes lingered. Since road building, according to more modern methods, has been so generally adopted, this argument is no longer good.

Thousands of miles of asphalt pavement have been laid in states between Florida and Nebraska, and, at first, objection was made to tree planting along such roads on the ground that the tree roots would uplift or crack the surface. As this rarely happens in city streets, no good reason is evident why it should be different along country roads, and, in fact, those who have experimented say if the trees are set far enough back no ill result whatever follows. Much would depend, of course, on the character of the tree. An intelligent person would hardly recommend the planting of a beech tree near any pavement.

TIRES GOING ABROAD
Automobile tires manufactured in the United States are moving abroad at the rate of 1,200,000 casings and 1,000,000 inner tubes a year. This trade is estimated to be worth $20,250,000.

DISTRICT SHOWS GAINS

With an increase of 36.7 per cent, the District of Columbia during 1922 showed a larger percentage of increase in registration of motor vehicles than any state in the Union.

In early navigation on the Mississippi, the sleeping rooms on the passenger boats were named after the different states, hence the name, staterooms.

DO NOT CHANGE VALVE

When removing valves from engine for any purpose, it is of utmost importance to keep them separate and replace them in identical seats from which they were removed. Failure to do so will be certain to result in leak and the tappets and stem ends be wrong.

DUTY OF DEALER TO OWNER SHOWN LEAVE OLD MARK BEHIND IN SALES

Delivery of Car Adds to Agent's Liability to Give Service
Chevrolet Reaches Record Height During April, Says Distributor

"The present phenomenal wave of new car buying is only the effort of business institutions and individuals to meet the accelerating pace of commerce and industry generally," says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers.

"As we see it, the present tremendous demand for new cars is abundant proof of the fact that automobile transportation is one of the first requisites of a successful social and commercial life today.

"The man who is not making use of automotive transportation today is under a disadvantage that no amount of economy can justify or equalize.

"It is equally true that the car owner who is not getting a satisfactory performance from his car is unable to keep up with the man who does.

"The most important function of the automobile dealer today is to be at the service of owners rather than merely to look for sales. The responsibility for local automotive transportation falls directly upon the local dealer, rather than upon the maker of the car."

"One important phase of the present remarkable volume of business in new automobiles is the manner in which local dealers measure up to the increased requirements of car owners," says Mr. Clark.

Extra Liability
"Hundreds of new cars are being delivered in every community this spring. Each one of these new cars represents an addition to the liability of the dealer who sold it, for service co-operation, parts and accessories.

"Has he proportionately increased his ability and responsibility? Has he become a still more competent automotive merchant with a still greater and more modern institution to serve the car owner? Or is he going to try to cover the needs of dozens of new owners with the facilities and organization that barely sufficed to meet the demands of his patrons a year ago?"

"As the number of new cars increases there should be a proportionate increase in the size and importance of the local dealer. For he is the one to whom the car owner of this and previous years must look for maintenance."

NOTED ARTISTS ADVERTISE CARS

Willys-Overland Co. Engage Leading Painters to Show Product

The striking advertisements that have been issued by the Willys-Overland Corporation in the Saturday Evening Post during their present campaign on their new models have been painted by some of the leading artists in the country, who have been retained expressly by the company to turn out the most attractive pictures of the new cars that could be obtained.

Among the men whose work has already appeared are F. X. Leyendecker, Norman Rockwell, Fredrick Stanley and George Brehm, and others of equal prominence will be called on for pictures in the immediate future.

Norman Rockwell's painting, "The Main Thing on Main Street," has struck an especially rich chord through its wonderful human interest element, as well as by its artistic merit, and many people have cut it out and framed it, as well as several of the others.

These pictures, in full poster size, are being preserved in the George T. Smith agency, 228 South Brand boulevard, where they are mounted on the walls and where they are open to the inspection of all who appreciate real art.

Dragging Brakes May Be Cause of Blaze

Even though a brake lining is made of asbestos, which is virtually incombustible, a dragging brake is fully capable of setting fire to rear wheels, it is pointed out by experts, in urging upon automobile drivers the importance of periodic examinations of brakes and their mechanisms.

If brakes are permitted to drag, the brake lining and brake drums will be worn down unnecessarily. If the drag is pronounced, sufficient frictional heat may be generated when the car is on the road to burn the paint off the brake drums, and surrounding parts and, in certain cases, we have found, actually starting a fire.

Trying out the brakes, with the rear wheels jacked up, will reveal such dragging, and will also show whether the right and left wheel brakes are operating alike. Automobile owners are taking a chance if they fail to see that their brakes are well inspected every 500 miles or thirty days, depending on the use to which the car is put.

BAD HABIT

Never drive with the feet resting on the clutch and brake pedals. The clutch is in this way partly released, causing almost constant slipping, and the car will lack speed. To overcome this, the driver feeds more gas, causing the engine to overheat, and also wasting gasoline.

Sales records compiled by C. L. Smith, Orange and Colorado, indicate that the sales of Chevrolet cars in this territory jumped to new high totals during April, shattering all previous records and putting the Chevrolet well up in the first flight of producers.

One factor that has had a remarkable influence in boosting the sales of Chevrolets has been the cut in the price of gasoline, according to Mr. Smith, as many people who have been computing carefully the cost of running a car have hastened to buy the Chevrolet, with its well-known reputation for economy in gasoline consumption, as soon as the reduced prices went into effect. A saving of 5 or 6 cents a gallon on gasoline, Mr. Smith declares, amounts to considerable when one gets into the class of cars such as the Chevrolet, where the gasoline mileage is so high, and one can readily appreciate the low operating cost with the present price of fuel oil.

The local agency is showing a chassis of a one-ton Chevrolet truck at present, and the sturdy construction of the machine has attracted favorable comment from many of the local business men who use trucks in their business and who have been impressed with the power that lies in the power plant in the Chevrolet.

REO SHIPPED IN TRAINLOAD LOTS

Huge Delivery Inadequate To Supply Demands of All Agents

Only a few years ago, when a dealer had temerity enough to write his factory asking that they ship him a "carload" of automobiles, he was looked upon more or less as a "nut" by his fellow-dealers and his banker began to look over the books to see just how far he had already gone in the matter of credits.

Last week the Reo Motor Co. of Lansing, Mich., shipped to the Los Angeles territory two trainloads of Reo cars, and of these Harry E. White, Inc., San Fernando road, the local Reo distributor, was able to obtain only two carloads, whereas his order called for five carloads, and many other agencies in the Southland are suffering from the same shortage. Other shipments of five, ten and fifteen carload lots are pouring into this territory, but these are insufficient to meet the demands of the trade, according to Mr. White.

The Los Angeles territory has been short of Reo passenger cars since the opening of the spring demand for cars became somewhat acute about January 1. February—a short month—produced a large volume of sales, March was the best month in the history of the company, and April has only been awaiting cars with which to satisfy the demand in order to battle with its predecessor for the year's sales honors.

Mr. Hunter invites you to have a hill-climbing test in the Oldsmobile. If you have a pet hill that you would like to try, come in.

The Olds is noted for its power.

In fact, Olds holds many hill-climbing records, such as from Sacramento to Reno, made in high, going over the famous slippery Ford grade and returning across the mountains and desert in high, pulling eleven grown people over Griffith Park in high, fourteen people over Cahuenga Pass in high, and up Mt. Diablo with eighteen people in high.

The latest test was climbing Stone Mountain in Georgia, where the Oldsmobile is the only car that ever succeeded in getting to the top.

How to Treat Spring That Becomes Frozen

Sometimes when the spring is rusted to the extent that it becomes "frozen" in rigid mass the only remedy is to take it apart, wash each leaf with kerosene and replace, inserting a heavy piece of wrapping paper thoroughly saturated with a good grade of graphite grease between each leaf.

TESTING FOR KNOCKS

To determine whether a knock really exists, the engine can be run idle at various speeds, or the car can be driven over a smooth isolated road. The isolation provides quiet surroundings, while the smooth pavement excludes all knocks and rattles of the chassis parts.

TODAY—Construction of a trans-State highway between Kansas City, Mo., and St. Louis, will save thousands of dollars annually, writes Douglas G. Tinsley, Kansas City correspondent.

MONDAY—Irene Corbally Kuhn, Honolulu correspondent, contributes a column of miscellaneous news notes.

By DOUGLAS G. TINSLEY
For International News Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 5.—Howard county, thence through Boone county and Columbia, and then passes through Callaway, Montgomery, Warren and St. Charles counties. The Missouri river is crossed at St. Charles, and the route is over the St. Charles rock road, in St. Louis county, in making the entry into St. Louis.

"Without going into details," said Engineer Piepmeyer, "it may be conservatively estimated that our cross-state highway between Kansas City and St. Louis will carry traffic averaging 2000 vehicles a day. The average load or cargo of the vehicles will be something like 1000 pounds. We thus see that our tonnage transported in a day's time will be 1000 tons. For a saving of forty miles in the traveled distance there will result a saving of 40,000 ton-miles of transportation. At 10 cents per ton this means a daily saving of $4000, or an annual saving of $1,460,000. Other daily tonnage would give proportionate results. By adding the annual saving on the roadbed of $64,000 to the annual saving in operation we get a grand total of $1,524,000 per annum. The traffic gets the immediate benefit of this.

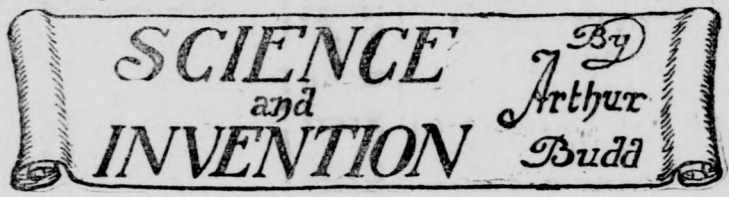

"However, this is not all the savings, as the cost of operating vehicles over the shorter route will be less. This latter economy can be readily estimated for any given daily tonnage, knowing the average cost of hauling a ton-load through a distance of one mile is about 10 cents."

The highway follows the line of the Sni-a-bar road through Jackson county to the Lafayette county line, through Lafayette, Saline and Cooper counties, crossing the Missouri river at Booneville. The road skirts the southern end of

LIVING ON A "CRUST"

Locomotive Falls Into a Mine

There has recently been renewed alarm in Scranton, Pa., on account of "cave-ins." And no wonder, for every now and then a house drops into a mine-tunnel that has been excavated beneath it, or an entire block may be threatened.

How could such things fail to happen? The U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates that there has been removed from beneath Scranton, which is a city of 140,000 inhabitants, a quantity of material not less than was dug out of the Isthmus of Panama to make the canal. Scranton is built over a bed of precious anthracite, and the only way to get the coal was to burrow for it beneath the city. The latter, in its growth, has spread over extensive areas that cover desert-like mines. In some places the "crust" over which streets run is not more than ten feet thick.

Some years ago a schoolhouse broke partly through. More recently a double dwelling-house on Ross avenue was engulfed. The inmates of one house took alarm in time and escaped; those of the other had gone to bed, and rescuers barely succeeded in getting them out in their nightclothes, by the help of a lowered ladder, before the building disappeared.

Many other towns in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys are similarly undermined. At Old Forge, twenty miles from Scranton, five children were playing on the public recreation ground, a hole in the ground, a few feet deep, had suddenly opened. She had fallen into a mine tunnel, from which her body was afterward recovered.

At Shenandoah the earth opened and swallowed two men and a work shanty. A news dispatch said that searchers in the coal mine beneath could find no trace of men or building. They might have dropped 500 feet, and weeks might be required to ascertain their fate.

At Valley Camp, a village near Pittsburgh, built over a deserted coal mine, holes yawned in the

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Dear me! There's another one!" exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one day.

"One what?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Do you mean another of the animal boys running up on your clean stoop with muddy feet?"

"No, it isn't any of them," said Nurse Jane. "It's a fly! Now that we have the windows open the flies are coming in. I wish you'd get me some sticky fly paper, Wiggily."

"I shall get you some," promised the bunny rabbit gentleman, making a low and polite bow with his pink, twinkling tail hat. Then he put on his black nose and—

Oh, yes, yes! I see! I've made a little mistake! I mean Uncle Wiggily put on his black nose and made a polite bow with his pink, twinkling nose. Now I'm right, thank goodness! And then Uncle Wiggily set off over the fields and through the woods to get some sticky fly paper for Nurse Jane.

"I suppose it seems cruel to catch the flies on sticky paper," thought Uncle Wiggily as he hopped along, wondering what sort of an adventure he would have. "But it is much better to catch the flies than to let them catch us. And, besides, it is much better for the flies to be all together in one place on the sticky paper than scattered all over the bungalow."

The rabbit uncle was half way through the woods, when he met Uncle Butter, the goat gentleman.

"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Uncle Butter.

"To get some fly paper," answered Mr. Longears.

"Bless my whiskers!" bleated Uncle Butter. "You don't mean to say that you buy a newspaper for your flies to read. I never heard of such a thing! I know the flies in our house want sugar, but I never dreamed of getting a paper for them. In fact, I didn't know that flies could read."

"Ho! Ho! Don't be silly! Of course flies can't read, and I'm not going to get them that kind of paper," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'm going to get a sticky paper with which to catch the flies. Nurse Jane doesn't want them buzzing about the bungalow."

"Oh, that's different!" chuckled Uncle Butter. "Yes, it would be silly to buy flies a paper to read, or even a paper of pins!"

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped on to the eleven and twelve cent store, and bought a large sticky fly paper. It came in two pieces, as a matter of fact—two pieces with the sticky sides together.

"But how are the flies going to sit down to be stuck?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the little mouse girl clerk who waited on him.

"Oh, just put the pieces apart slowly, and you will have two sticky papers, squeaked the mouse girl, and Uncle Wiggily thanked her. Then he hurried back through the woods to his hollow stump bungalow.

But, all of a sudden, out from behind a mulberry bush popped the Bob Cat, with tassels on his ears. He was a hungry chap, was the Bob Cat, and anxious to nibble someone.

"Ah, ha. I guess I'll nibble you!" howled the Bob Cat to the bunny uncle, "I guess I'll nibble your ears!"

"Oh, please don't!" begged Uncle Wiggily. Then the Bob Cat saw what Uncle Wiggily was carrying home and the bad chap snarled:

"What have you there?"

"Paper," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Just paper. It's paper for—"

"Ha! Just what I want to see—a newspaper!" interrupted the Bob Cat. "I want to see what's going to be on the wireless and I want to know about the weather. Here, give me that paper!" he cried, most impolitely, snatching it away from the rabbit gentleman.

"Wait a minute," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It isn't that kind of a paper. It's paper for—"

"It's paper for me—that's what it is!" snarled the Bob Cat. With that he tore off the wrapping and pulled the sticky fly paper apart. And, as the day was warm the stuff was very sticky. One piece clung to the Bob Cat's left paw.

"Hi! What's this?" he cried, trying to pull it off. Then a bit stuck to his right paw. "Oh, wow!" he howled. "What kind of paper is this? And he tore around getting more stuck up than ever."

"It's fly paper, not Bob Cat paper!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. Then the bad animal tried to pull the piece of sticky paper off his lips to talk plainly. And, of course he couldn't nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny rabbit as the Bob Cat rolled over and over on the ground, trying to get rid of the sticky stuff. "Three cheers for the fly paper!" Then Mr. Longears slipped back and bought more sticky paper for Nurse Jane and she caught a lot of flies. So that's all now. But if the tooth brush doesn't try to shoot the bath tub with talcum powder and make the cake of soap slide down stairs, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Sneezing Sunshine.

THE FLEWELLING CIRCUIT

SINCE my former article on this subject, there has been considerable experimenting on the part of fans, some with success and others not so good, but it shows the possibilities in this fly-ver hookup. In place of honey-comb coils as suggested, spider web coils can be used with even better results and can be made up on fiber or other form, four inches in diameter and 1-16 inch thick. Two of these forms are needed, the primary coil having thirty-five turns of No. 24 cotton covered copper wire and the plate coil having forty-five turns of No. 30 copper wire. Like other spider web inductances, the form should be slotted, the slots coming to within three-fourths of an inch from the center of the form. Inductances can be wound on tubes that can be mounted so the coupling can be varied gradually. Variable condensers should also be used, as without them you are more than likely to pass by a distant station. The condenser across the tuning coil should be .0005 capacity as a larger one will not allow fine enough tuning such as this set requires. Accurate tuning is the solution for the success of this circuit and on account of lack of sharp tuning, the reason for the failure of this set is accounted for.

There are several good makes of .006 microfarad condensers on the market, being made especially for this circuit, but for those who cannot get them, they can be made up from three .002 telephone condensers. BUT do not make the mistake of some I know, and that is connect them in series and not in parallel. To be sure you connect them in parallel, lay them one on top of the other and then solder their ends together. When connected in series the combined capacity is only one-third of one of them.

There are several makes of variable grid leaks on the market and most of them are the "step by step" type but these will not answer our purpose as this set requires a very critically adjusted grid leak, which other sets do not require. What is required, in fact necessary, is an adjustable grid leak that can be set at any value up to 5 megohms. While some get good results with but one variable it has been found better practice to have both of them variable. Pencil marks while making a variable leak of the desired resistance has the disadvantage that it is variable as to atmospheric changes and cannot be relied upon for this work. There is a certain critical spot on the leak that will bring stations in very strong while on others they will come in moderately well. This spot is not always found by the fan and accounts for some of them being cast aside after a short tryout.

STONES ARE DESIRABLE MATERIAL

Plenty of Boulders Close to Glendale Aid in Building Beautification

"There are enough boulders in the washes between here and San Fernando to build the pyramids!"
is the way one Glendale contractor summarizes the results of his observations, "and yet, except in isolated instances, no practical use is made of this prodigious supply of ready-hewn and rounded stones.
They aren't even used for fences, to any great extent, as they are in the east, and in England and other countries."

A motor trip over either San Fernando road or Michigan avenue, through the valley, will convince anyone that there exists indeed a staggering supply of boulders and cobblestones, literally to be had for the picking. Not only has no attempt been made to gather these stones from the washes, but practically no effort has been extended toward removing them from the fields, except in certain patches that have been put under cultivation; and here the great stones have simply been cleared off the premises as "undesirables" and stacked in ignominious heaps.

Valuable Material
In a few cases, it is true, they have been made into fences and walls marking boundary lines but such instances are rare. In most instances nothing has been done with them, except when necessary to get them out of the way, when they have been pushed aside like small boys at a circus.
And yet these boulders and cob-blestones constitute a very valuable building material, in the opinion of experts. The few houses in the valley where they have been employed stand as sentinals of time, pledged to endurance for an age, if need be. For the best of brick and mortar and concrete will ultimately crumble, but a boulder was made by the hand of God and has about it the qualities of eternity.

It has been argued that cost of transportation interferes with the extensive use of boulders and cob-blestones in construction work, but some better excuse than this will have to be found. As good an excuse as any might well be, "lack of vision." When once the vision is caught, California will be further beautified by the extensive employment of these "natural bricks" in building.

SET RECORD FOR INCOME RETURNS

Increase of 30.36 Per Cent
In L. A. District Leads Other Sections

That Los Angeles has set a record for the entire United States in percentage of increase in the number of income tax returns filed for 1922, as compared with 1921, was indicated by a special report sent to Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue, Rev. Goodell.

The collector's report is based on revised figures and shows that the estimated number of returns given in a former report fell 6000 short of the actual total.

The revised figures prove that 230,682 separate returns were filed, a gain of 53,732 over last year or 30.36 per cent increase.
This sets a mark that will not be equalled by any of the other sixty-four internal revenue districts in the country, revenue officials assert.

Revised Figures
Here are the revised figures which will set the new country-wide record:

Total number of returns filed, 230,682, an increase of 30.36 per cent.
Returns of incomes under $5000

INCREASE FOR GLENDAL'S BUILDING

Many New Homes Go Under Way During April, So Figures Indicate

April was one of the most active months in the history of Glendale for the construction of residences and small business buildings, according to the report of H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department at the city hall.

The month of April closed with $52,998 worth of building permits to its credit, which brought the total for the first four months of this year to $3,663,422. This is just $1,185,413, or one-third more than the $2,478,009 worth of permits issued during the first third of 1922.

A comparison of the months is as follows:
January—1922, $512,155;
1923, $1,024,36.
February—1922, $421,890;
1923, $1,019,613.
March—1922, $521,265; 1923,
$1,036,387.
April—1922, $1,022,699; 1923,
$52,998.

The Presbyterian church's building program was responsible for the total of last April. Its $650,000 structure, which is now under construction on the northwest corner of Harvard and Louise streets, was authorized the last of the month. Had the granting of this permit been deferred, the total for last April would have been $372,699—or $210,289 less than the total for the month just past.

More Permits Issued April this year saw one-third more permits issued than the $393,418 worth of permits issued for the corresponding month in 1921, and over four times the number of permits issued during April, 1920, which totaled $102-448.

Last April with its total of $1-022,699 had the largest monthly total during all of 1922. This total has been exceeded already by two months this year: January, $1,024,36, and March, $1,036-387. Close behind came February with $1,019,613.

April was a good month as far as the establishment of new homes is concerned, according to the report to James P. McIntyre, commercial agent of the Public Security Department. His report shows that ninety-nine water meters and 184 light meters were installed, increasing the total number in service to 7,996 water meters and 10,079 electric meters.
He stated that the office was flooded with applications the last couple of days of the month, which will appear in this month's records.

EXPORTS, IMPORTS AT HARBOR GROW

April Figures Show Advance
Over Last Year, Says
Customs Officer

The value of Los Angeles harbor's imports during April of this year was $1,683,817 greater than for April, 1922, according to Collector of Customs Schwabe today. Exports were $2,053,924 greater than for the month, and there was an increase of $109-673.83 in collections. Shipments to Hawaii increased $62,031 in value. The figures:

Imports—April, 1923, $2,808-709; April, 1922, $1,124,892; increase, $1,683,817.

Shipments to Hawaii—April,
1923, $510,000; April, 1922,

Los Angeles bank clearing for April, 1923, show a gain of $158-268,214.05 over clearings for the same month last year. The gain labor supply according to the present year amounts to $597-

Today's clearings totaled $22-087,969.90, and with a 31-day month April would have made a new record, passing March record of $579,770,678.

The clearings to date this year include:

LEGISLATURE AIDS STATE BUSINESS

Unscrupulous Oil Promoters And Stock Jobbers Get Hit Hard Blow

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Legitimate business has been materially aided and a staggering blow struck, at unscrupulous oil promoters and stock jobbers by Governor Friend Wm. Richardson, signing assembly bill No. 983 by Assemblyman Elmer P. Bromley amending the corporate securities act, otherwise known as the California blue sky law.

This amendment was made today by Commissioner of Corporations Edwin M. Daugherty.
This bill includes three of the most drastic and important changes in "blue sky" legislation in years. They are: Controlling operations of "individuals" dealing in mining and oil securities; bringing within the purview of the corporate securities act flotation of bond issues by "individuals" and bonding brokers.

Many "individuals" were actually companies resorting to subterfuge in seeking to avail themselves of any technicality or loophole in the corporate securities act so as to evade supervision in flotation of questionable oil securities. The rulings of the attorney general holding the department in its effort to curb the riot of wild promotion in the California oil fields stood until the first of March, when a decision came down from the court of appeal in favor of the plaintiff in the case instituted by E. A. Lamb, a Los Angeles oil promoter.

The corporate securities act heretofore specially exempted "individuals" from its control. The Lamb case involved an "individual" floating and selling to the general public oil securities.

To Close Loopholes
The bill just signed by Governor Richardson and which was prepared by Assemblyman Bromley, with the aid of representative Northern and Southern California business men, it is believed will close up these loopholes in the law.

Within the past year or two,
the increased number of bond issues by "individuals" where the securities issued were greatly in excess of the limitation usually placed upon companies have alarmed the investing public, bankers and public officials.

In several instances the "individuals" have issued bonds on guarantee of inflated value. With no sinking fund or amortization provision to protect the purchaser, in case of decline in value, this became alarming.

Hereafter "individuals" will be required to make the same showing as companies before they can sell their securities to the general public in California.

Must Have Bond
Security brokers in California will be required by the amendment to provide a bond of $5,000 payable to the state of California.

This bond is required to insure a faithful compliance with the provisions of act, not only the corporate securities act, but all state laws.

Most brokers in California have adhered rigidly to a conscientious performance of their duty to their clients. There have been some brokers, however, who have persistently engaged in fraud and have sold to the public securities that may prove to be worthless.

MAINTAIN UPWARD INDUSTRY TREND

Present Output Hits Mark Never Before Reached, Declare Bankers

The upward trend of industrial activity has continued during the past month and in nearly all important lines is reported close to capacity or restricted only by the labor supply according to the survey made by the National City bank of New York.

The present output of construction materials, transportation equipment and manufactured goods generally has never been surpassed. Moreover, it is worthy of note that the activity of 1917, the year with the greatest production record, was largely expended upon war equipment and supplies.

The output of iron and steel was then going largely into guns and shells, while now it is going into building materials, railroad equipment, automobiles and machinery.

The output of the textile industries was going largely at that time to clothe the armies, while now it is going to supply the general trade demands. The use to which things are put has bearing in the long run upon the level

REALTY FOLK READY FOR OUTING

More Than 2000 Will Attend
Big Picnic at Riverside,
Saturday, May 12

The biggest crowd of real estate dealers ever gotten together in the state is expected in Riverside Saturday, May 12, when that city will be host to members of the Southern California Real Estate Picnic Association. Fully 2,000 are expected.

Headed by President Edwin G.
Hart, the largest individual delegation is expected from the Los Angeles Realty Board. Glendale, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Redlands,
San Diego, El Centro, Brawley and other cities will be represented. The purpose of this picnic is to get acquainted and enjoy a good time for one whole day and evening.

The program will open with a trip to the Glenwood Mission Inn, which will be opened for inspection of the visitors at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The next event will be a visit to the top of Mount Rubidoux for a view of the scenic valley, followed by a basket picnic at Fairmount Park.
Welcoming the delegates from the southland, Mayor S. C. Evans of Riverside will urge the visitors to accept the hospitality of the city. An address in behalf of the Riverside Board of Realtors will be delivered by Frank C. Nye.
Guest of Honor

The guest of honor will be Frazier O. Reed, president of the California Real Estate Association, who will make a talk on the different phases of the realtors' activities in California. He will touch on the need for a constitutional amendment to prohibit the issuing of tax exempt securities by city, county, state and nation.

Music during the basket dinner and during the afternoon will be furnished by the Riverside military band. Harness racing, boxing, wrestling and other athletic events will be staged later in the day at the Southern California fair grounds. The entertainment of the visitors will end with an elaborate ball to be conducted at the Elks' clubhouse. W. E. Stephens of Riverside is the president of the picnic association. J.
S. Logan is secretary. Over 5,000 invitations to realty dealers have been issued by the association.

WESTERN RAILWAY OUTLOOK BRIGHT

April Traffic Reports Show
Big Expansion, Says
C. M. & St. P. Chief

By H. E. BYRAM
President Chicago, Milwaukee & St.
Paul Railroad

NEW YORK, May 5.—Based on all the trustworthy guides we ob-tainally follow in determining business prospects the outlook today is very encouraging. Especially is this true of the western section of the country, where there has been a steady increase in the volume of freight on the railroad lines.

The St. Paul system in February broke the record for such a time-period in the amount of its net earnings. March will show up better than February, while April traffic reports, just at hand, show progressive improvement over the two preceding months.

Expect Expansion
This is indicative also of the situation in all of the traffic lines operating in western territory.

All business should expand this year, if sufficient labor is obtainable to keep the wheels moving.
The trouble in the boom period is that everybody tries to produce up to their utmost capacity and this of itself creates an artificial shortage of labor in some departments of industry.

The farmer is under the greatest handicap at such a time, because of the allotments of city employment and city life.

The railroad systems are striving to give a better quality and quantity of service to the business men of the nation. They have already announced an ambitious program of general expansion, and this, in itself, is a challenge to those who say that the great transportation industries have broken down.

With its inadequate equipment and under great handicaps, the railroads of America in the last six months carried more traffic than in any similar period in the history of the country.

No Place Like Home, Yet It Can Be Made Even More Attractive Through Study

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

THE very essence of truth is sounded in this sentiment of man's love for his home in the beloved song, "Home Sweet Home," by John Howard Payne, written for his opera Clari or the Maid of Milan.

This song made the opera famous and a hundred thousand copies of it were rapidly sold, but the only pecuniary benefits Mr. Payne received from it was $150, the price paid by Charles Kemble of the Covent Garden Theatre for the opera.

With kindly memory, the centennial anniversary of the writing of this song will be fittingly observed and the week of May 6 to 13 set aside by the clergy, women's clubs, and schools for talks and celebrations and commercial houses will give space for beautiful window displays, emphasizing the contentment and happiness to be found through developing the home as to its color, form, and line, in a way that is restful and satisfying.

There is innate in every human being the longing for a home, built after a pattern he has visualized as one of his fondest dreams. To make this dream come true, is one of the greatest uplifting elements in life's pathway. Very often many sacrifices, the abandonment of many pleasures are foregone that the one greatest goal, the owning of the home, may be reached.

Home is the one place in the world where we can put aside conventionalities and just be ourselves, where we can find love, and rest, and peace.

It is indeed worth while to study each step of the way in the furnishing of the home that it may reflect the personality of the owner, that the color scheme be satisfying, that each piece of furniture be useful as well as beautiful, and that the art objects and pictures serve their purpose for inspiration.

How delightful it is to step into a home where the living room just radiates that it is lived in; where there is a chair for friend husband by the fireplace with a table nearby for magazines, books and papers and a bridge lamp just for his use, and then for added comfort, a stool the height of his chair. For the mother's corner, by a sunny window place a chair that she likes best—say a St. Francis, and by it a small gate-leg or tilt-top table, on one side, and a sewing cabinet on the other. It is nice to find a small stool, a reading lamp, and a bowl of flowers in this setting and a picture or two that will reflect the mother's spirit like a Wallace Nutting, Madame Le Brun and her daughter, or a lovely Madonna.

Develop each center for the children, music, reading and writing with care that the home may be in the words of John Howard Payne, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

"HOME, SWEET HOME"
Mid pleasures and palaces tho' I may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;
A charm from the skies seems to hallow me there,
Which, seek thru the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.

I gaze on the moon as I tread the drear wild,
And feel that my mother now thinks of her child;
She looks at that moon from our cottage door,
Thro' woodbine, whose fragrance shall cheer me no more.

An exile from home, splendor dazzles in vain,
Oh, give me my lowly thatched cottage again;
The birds singing gaily, that came at my call,
Give me then, sweet peace of mind, dearer than all.

If I return home, overburdened with care,
The heart's dearest solace I'm sure to have there,
The bliss I experience whenever I come,
Makes no place seem like that home.

Farewell, peaceful cottage! Farewell happy home!
Forever I'm doomed a poor exile to roam;
This poor aching heart must be laid in the tomb,
Ere it cease to regret the endearment of home.

REFRAIN
Home, Home
Sweet, Sweet Home,
There's no place like home,
Oh, there's no place like home.

PROPER KIND OF PLASTER NEEDED

Walls of Building Should Be Surfaced by Expert Over Metal Lath

"The average layman," remarked an authority on construction, "is practically helpless to judge whether or not the plaster being put on the walls of his house is good plaster or whether or not the job being done is a good job."

"His architect is in hardly a better position after the job is under way."

"The important thing is to engage a man who has a good reputation as a plasterer and who employs good workmen. The man's reputation by all means should be put above the price he may charge."

"Defects in plaster will not show immediately, but in two or three months the plaster may simply come down."
"The construction beneath the plaster should be sound. Sometimes cracks in plaster are traceable to wood lying beneath the plaster that has shrunk."

"Just here is a point about the value of metal as against wooden laths as a foundation for plaster.
Plaster must be put on thicker over metal laths, therefore metal laths contribute to the best job."

"Wood offers such a flat sur-

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB PREPARING GOLF COURSE

Thirty Teams at Work Grading Land and Making Ready to Start on Buildings; Much Activity at Sparr Heights

THE past week has witnessed notable activity at Sparr Heights. The Oakmont Country Club has thirty teams at work leveling and grading its golf course, and is preparing to lay the foundation of its club house. Along the Boulevard business buildings of handsome design are making rapid progress, and upon every hand are seen signs of stimulated building.

The development of the streets and roads in the tract in the past few weeks has been remarkable, but notable as the progress of this beautiful residential tract has been, there are matters pending and soon to be made public that will evidence the deep interest taken by men of affairs in this new community, and that will surprise and delight its friends.

The future of the new town of Sparr Heights as a community center no less important than Glendale and Hollywood is now definitely settled. Business is quick to see its opportunity and is taking advantage of "getting in on the ground floor," and the numerous sales of fine residence sites in the past month show that prospective home-builders are realizing the unrivalled position of the tract and its facilities for furnishing an ideal place of residence where one may enjoy outdoor life, an ideal climate, and the freedom of the country, but in such close touch with the city that it may be accessible without more expenditure of time than is necessary for those who dwell in its outlying districts.

Pleasure Available
Every facility for education and amusement offered by the city will eventually be afforded at Sparr Heights, while recreation and pleasure impossible to the city dweller will be available, together with those permanent associations which make a home something more than a mere shelter after the work of the day is done.
With the attractions of scenery, climate and surroundings afforded by Sparr Heights, its position on the only artery through which the traffic of the communities beyond it can flow to Los Angeles is of great present importance, and bound to increase both its population and its business. Moreover, the confidence that this is true is inspiring the firms who locate in the business district set aside by the developers of the tract to construct edifices calculated to meet future as well as present needs.

PURCHASE TRACT OF EIGHT ACRES

Multiple Listing System Responsible for Sale
Of Many Pieces

Recent sales of multiple listings reported to Miss Winnifred Traver, office secretary of the Glendale Realty Board, amount to many thousands of dollars. Among the sales reported since May 1, is a tract of land in the northwest part of the city, bounded by Tenth street, Kenneth road, Winchester and Justin streets, comprising about eight acres in all, sold by the Suburban Realty Co., who owned the property, to J. L. Wernette and C. D. Hellyer, who will subdivide the acreage, and place it on the market at once. The Suburban Realty Co. also report the sale to J. Will Johnson of vacant lot on South Brand boulevard, immediately adjoining their office on the south, and the sale of the northeast corner of Brand and Lomita avenue, to Mrs. De Lew Brouck, who plans to improve the corner in the near future.

Since the inauguration of the system in December, 1922, over $687,000 worth of properties listed under the multiple system have been sold. Report for the month of April showed the sale of 22 per cent of the total number of listings taken during the month, value of property sold $105,000. During the month of April the following vacant lots were sold: Vacant business lot on South Brand boulevard, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth G. Bray, listed and sold by Ed. Hennes; vacant lot on North Columbus street, owned by Bertha Newcomb, listed by Yale Brothers Realty Co., and sold by the listing office; business lot on West Broadway, owned by L. W. Babcock, listed and sold by Smith & Babcock, and the northwest corner of Brand and Los Feliz road listed and sold through the office of the Burton Realty Co.

Improved Properties
The improved properties sold during the month were as follows: 5 room house, 364 Auden avenue, owned by Charles Wouters, listed by James W. Pearson, sold through listing office; 5 room house, 1407 East Colorado street, owned by Harry S. Hooper, listed by Smith & Babcock, sold by Wernette & Sawyer; 5 room house, 900 Los Angeles street, owned by A. L. Flinn, listed by Hayward & McCartney, and sold by the listing office; 6 room house, 3433 Atwater avenue, owned by James A. PROPER KIND OF PLASTER NEEDED

Walls of Building Should Be Surfaced by Expert Over Metal Lath

face the plasterer can lay it on thinner.

"Sometimes metal laths have been covered with paper by a slack contractor so that it has been possible to do a poor job on the metal as on wood.

"The ordinary lath upon which the plaster is spread is of spruce or hemlock free of bark so as not to stain through.

Cuts Fire Hazard
"Metal is not only better but decreases the fire hazard for you. Sometimes plaster board, which takes the place of the lath and the first coat of plaster, is used.

"Wall board is another material made of gypsum plaster and takes the place of all plaster. Those materials can take paint or paper, can be put up rapidly and fixed together with mortar.

"There are various opinions as to the worth of them. Shortage of plasterers is the chief cause of their existence.

"Of the plaster itself there are two kinds, lime and gypsum. Lime is the old fashioned type and takes longer to dry. Gypsum is harder.

"It is sometimes called 'hard wall plaster.' It used to be called 'patent plaster.'

"If building went on under absolutely ideal conditions any plaster used would not be painted or papered for about six months.

"It is seldom practicable to wait at all, but it is much wiser not to put any really expensive paper on newly plastered walls.

"In place of the hard white finish put on most plaster to receive the paper or paint, there is an economical and attractive 'smooth finish' sand, which can be painted or dyed.

"Cold water paints or stains can be used on it right away.

Takes Three Coats
"Without color, if the sand is clean, it is very acceptable to look at. It costs a little more than the hard finish, but is practical and appeals to many home builders.

"Plaster itself, it seems, must be of good quality. That depends on the proportions and quality of the materials put into it.

Those materials include sand. In the best work three coats usually are applied.

The first is the so-called scratch coat and the second is the brown coat.

When the latter is dry it is ready for the finish coat. The ordinary finish coat is composed of sand and enough white sand for better lime putty and plaster of paris working.

Hard finish is used in many cases in the minor rooms only. The smooth sand finish that has been spoken of is one type of improvement on it.

In many cases, in such special rooms as require a decorative finish, a mottled or antiquated surface is applied to the plaster—in reality a fourth coat.

That coat is of such a type as accords with the wishes of the architect or owner.

FOR SCHOOL PROJECTS

The Glendale Board of Education has commissioned the following architects, among others, for the remaining school projects under the recent $500,000 bond issue: Alfred F. Priest, 1422 North Central avenue; George M. Lindsey, 234 North Harvey drive; C. C. Rittenhouse, 903 East Windsor road, and A. G. Lindley, 123 South Belmont street, all of Glendale.

SHOW GAIN

March building permits in the 207 principal cities of the United States totaled $422,591,933, a gain over March, 1922, of $161,564,177, or sixty-one per cent, according to official reports.

W. E. Herren, field secretary for the National Association of Real Estate boards, writes as follows, in the last number of the National Real Estate Journal: "The Multiple Listing System has proven that the combined efforts of all members under a definite plan of procedure can stimulate real estate sales, and permit each member to become better acquainted with the real estate market, and to offer better selling service. Property owners profit by the use of this system, and are, therefore, more willing to confine their business dealings to realtors."

Realtor and Builder Form Partnership

J. I. Wernette, senior partner in the firm of Wernette & Sawyer, has disposed of his interest in the firm to J. H. Bolen, and the latter has become associated with Mr. Sawyer under the firm name of Sawyer & Bolen, with offices at 211 West Broadway, where they are carrying on a real estate and building business.

Mr. Sawyer is looking after the building department and now has six residences under construction, with more in prospect, while Mr. Bolen will devote his attention to the realty end. The two men have been friends for years, and when Mr. Bolen came here on a pleasure trip two years ago he decided to return, which he did as soon as

Citizenship Measure Favored by Committee

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Senator Sharkey's resolution memorializing congress to adopt a constitutional amendment denying citizenship to children of aliens ineligible to citizenship has been favorably recommended to the assembly from committee. Chinese native sons of San Francisco objected to the measure, which was temporarily held up in committee after having been approved by the senate.

German and Russian books for children are so scarce it is almost impossible to buy them.

he could dispose of his extensive holdings in Michigan.

State to Vote With Machines, Decision

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Governor Richardson announced today that he had signed Assembly bill No. 81, by Fellom, which provides a general scheme for the use of voting machines in elections.

In signing the bill, the governor said the use of voting machines was a progressive step that would greatly facilitate the handling of returns.

The bill is favored by the publishers of the five daily newspapers of Los Angeles, the San Francisco publishers, the board of supervisors of both Los Angeles and San Francisco and the press associations.

Time Extended for Alien Homesteader

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Homestead entrymen upon public lands who are of foreign birth and who are applying for naturalization papers are assured by the interior department that their entries will not be canceled merely because they have not been admitted to citizenship prior to the expiration of the statutory life of the entries.

Secretary Work today issued instructions to all registrars and receivers of United States land offices suspending final proofs on homestead entries where the entrymen were awaiting decision upon their naturalization as American citizens.

The step was taken as a result of a request from the commissioner of naturalization in which attention was called to the fact that entrymen who have delayed in applying for admission to citizenship upon public lands had almost expired have been unable to influence hasty action by the courts by stating that unless they secure evidence of naturalization their entries will be canceled.

One of the stipulations made by the interior department is that the entrymen of foreign birth must show that they are acting in good faith before suspension of final proof will be effective.

BUILDING GAIN

A building gain of 171 per cent in March was registered in the Pacific coast states, the Central states gaining seventy-five per cent and the Eastern states forty-one per cent, estimates show.

Much Money Going Into School Bonds

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Various school districts of California have bonded themselves for almost $100,000,000 during the last few years for the purpose of building school buildings and purchasing school sites and equipment.

It is significant that $46,800,000, or more than half of amount, was voted in 1922, Francisco and Los Angeles being responsible for much of amount. These figures were compiled by Prof. F. W. Hart of University of California and leased by Will C. Wood, superintendent of public instruction.

-the past is but an inkling of the future —That "anticipation is greater than realization" is a common misquotation. Men who today are enjoying Glendale's prosperity the most are those who yesterday anticipated its future. Glendale has far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the optimist—its growth has startled the nation. And "the past is but an inkling of the future."

—Momentum rightly accelerated increases. What accelerates Glendale's growth? Its location, its climate or its people? Perhaps a combination of all three, but certain that acceleration is positive. Glendale has STRUCK ITS STRIDE.

—The man with the broadest vision of the future and a determination to make that vision a reality will enjoy the prosperity of tomorrow the most. We are privileged to help such men make the realization of their dreams greater than anticipation. It is the fulfillment of our part in the progress of the Great Southwest.

Our recommendation has never been lightly given. Invariably our faith in each undertaking is guaranteed by our own investment.

Corporation returns, 6,075, an increase of 31.41 per cent.

Fiduciary returns $50, an increase of 275.49 per cent.

For the year 1921, one person every eight filed a return and based on this basis, the 1922 increase calls for a gain in population in the district of 421,757.

Reflecting general business expansion in Southern California, Director Goodell's survey presents these outstanding facts:

Increase in Returns

That for 1916 only 20,168 personal returns were filed in the whole state of California, as compared with 214,117 returned in the Los Angeles district alone for 1922.

That the Los Angeles district's income tax collection in 1922 was $5,821,215.47, compared with $1,011,525.97 in 1915, a gain of 400 per cent in eight years.

That in the face of a reduction of $7,000,000 per annum provided the smaller income taxpayer, the revenue act, the income tax collections for the first quarter of

HILLSIDE HOMESITES NOW AVAILABLE IN GLENOAKS

Picturesque, Rugged Beauty Conjures Up
Pictures Of Rustic Houses Snuggled
Down Among Trees On Fine Slopes

THE first rush of home-seekers has pretty well taken up all the level and lower priced lots in Glenoaks, the attractive Frank Meline Company sub-division in East Glendale, and purchasers are now turning their eyes to the attractive hillside sites and hill tops that are being cleared and made available. For a long time tract salesmen have had to contend with demands on the part of visitors for cabin sites. Glenoaks, with its picturesque, rugged beauty, at once conjures up pictures of delightful, rustic cabins, snuggled down among the oaks on the sides of the hills.

But the Frank Meline Company had an entirely different picture in mind. With roads leading up to the crests of the hills, and the underbrush cleared away, these same "cabin sites" provide unequalled sites for homes and small estates, a fact which the average man is inclined to overlook.

Glenoaks is said to be the heaviest wooded spot in all of Southern California. The live oaks that cover its hillside are unusually large and thick, and the total effect is to lend an artistic and rustic splendor to Glenoaks that is much sought after these days when trees are apparently going the way of horses and suspenders, and disappearing into a somewhat nebulous penumbra of modern ways and means.

Seek Higher Sites
So, with the passing of the level lots, the attention of home-seekers

1923 were $15,404,398.05, as compared with $13,320,313.55 for the same period of 1922, a gain of $2,084,084.50.

NEW SUBDIVISION GOES ON MARKET

Edwards & Wildey Co. Plan To Sell New Tract at Kenilworth Park

Investors in real estate are coming more and more to realize the importance of the firm through which they buy. The prestige of the agent is almost as important as the property itself.

If any firm ever had a successful past to back their activities the Edwards & Wildey Company, well-known subdividers, can claim the honors. The firm was organized seventeen years ago, both members firmly convinced of the great prosperity which Los Angeles and surrounding territory was to enjoy in the years to come. Today the recommendation of the firm behind a piece of property, no matter how large or small it may be, has a cash value to the buyer.

Seventeen years of unerring service to a host of satisfied clients has made the Edwards & Wildey Company one of the most successful and reliable real estate firms in the Southwest.

Spend Millions
During the span of years in which it has done business the company has spent millions of dollars investing in huge plots of ground, which they would hold until the proper time presented itself. Then they would subdivide the property. Their confidence in the future has remained unshaken through thick and thin.

The field in which the Edwards & Wildey Company has been interested covers several communities in and around Los Angeles. Tracts have been successfully subdivided in Los Angeles, Eagle Rock, Glendale, Burbank, Hollywood and other communities of less importance.

When the company first became interested in Eagle Rock, the only visible thing of importance was the rock from which the place got its name. After subdividing some fifteen tracts, the section took on a different appearance.

Sell Sixteen Tracts
The same was true in Glendale. When the company became interested in this part of the country, Glendale was a mere hamlet. Some sixteen tracts have been subdivided in Glendale by the company. In Burbank much of the development can be traced directly to the efforts of the Edwards & Wildey Company.

All in all, the company has a list of fifty or more subdivisions to back their latest project—Kenilworth Park, in Glendale.

Kenilworth Park is one of the finest tracts in Glendale. It is said to be the last piece of low-priced acreage in the section. The tract is completely surrounded by some of the finest residential development of the section.

Otto Wildey, of the firm, says: "Never, in all our experience in subdividing Southern California property, have we offered a better opportunity to the investor for a homestead or as a mere investment as is Kenilworth Park."

BOND FIRM SETS HUGE L. A. QUOTA

Building Trade Prosperity Causes Allocation of $5,900,000 Here

In their nationwide distribution of building loans, S. W. Straus & Co., national bond house, have allocated the second largest quota of their funds to Los Angeles, ranking that city next to Chicago for building investment, according to a statement made public by the bond house recently. The bond firm has underwritten loans totaling $5,900,000 on Los Angeles buildings since January 1, 1923, it was announced.

Evidence that the building industry is swinging into an era of record breaking prosperity is seen by the bond firm in the strong demand for additional funds to carry on building operations.

Since the first of the year, Straus & Co. have underwritten first mortgage loans of $54,120,000; it was stated.

Build New Hotels
Of this sum, $29,570,000 has been loaned in the western states and distributed as follows: Chicago, $13,300,000; Los Angeles, $5,900,000; Kansas City, $3,450,000; St. Louis, $1,600,000; San Francisco, $1,455,000; Detroit, $2,265,000; Long Beach, $675,000; Akron, $600,000 and Seattle, $325,000.

Over half of the amount loaned in the western states will be used in the construction of apartment houses and apartment hotels, it was said, and these building developments are expected to greatly relieve the housing situation.

"There has also been a strong demand for capital to finance office building construction during the past few months," the company reports, "especially in Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit and Kansas City. In Los Angeles two of the largest building projects in the city, the Mercantile Arcade and Office building and the Great Republican Life building, are being financed by Straus loans."

POWER OF MOULDING

"The history of civilization is told in architecture," say the Allied Architects' Association of Los Angeles, "and the architect of today, from a study of the structural masterpieces of the past, must learn the power of moulding the materials of building so as to reflect the thoughts and the lives of the people of this age."

The Hills Beautiful

Announcing the Opening Sunday, May 6, 1923

This beautiful view property, with its stately trees and natural beauty, is NOW open to the public. Scenic driveways will be opened into the hills and the present scheme of paved streets with ornamental street illumination used in the lower tract will be carried out, making this one of the very finest residential sections in Southern California. From the summit of these hills YOU MAY SEE THE WORLD. The contour of these wonderful hills is so varied that no two sites are identical in size or shape, but each has its own individuality. This offers a great selection from which to choose.

Our visualizing architect will pass on all building plans and assist in working out appropriate exterior plans for each site.

Highly restricted and for private residences only this will amply protect the purchaser and insure increase in values.

The climatic conditions in these hills are ideal, both winter and summer, being favored with a gentle sea breeze through the Los Feliz pass. Why live down on the level when you can buy a beautiful view site for the same price, everything considered? This property is close to business, schools, and car lines, and yet, from its very nature and location, it is exclusive and makes one feel as if you were back in the hills away from the hustle and bustle of the world.

As the Number of Sites Is Limited We Suggest That You Make Your Selections NOW

All street improvements, including ornamental street lights, water, gas and electricity, included in price of sites.

Big Crowds Will Swarm Into Bellehurst Park Sunday To Buy Newly Opened Tract

Britain Is Willing to Probe German Offer

LONDON, May 5.—Great Britain will give the most careful consideration to Germany's latest reparations offer of $7,500,000,000 to ascertain if it offers any basis for further negotiations, British officials have stated. It has been pointed out, however, that Great Britain is unlikely to initiate any action. Relations between Britain and France already are somewhat strained and the British do not want to do anything which will increase the tension.

France's original demand, made in conformity with the other allies two years ago, was for $33,000,000,000. Subsequently it was intimated in official quarters in Paris that France would negotiate upon the basis of $12,500,000,000.

The big stumblingblock is the determination of the French and Belgians to maintain the Ruhr. As virtually all of Germany's industries and coal mines are in the Ruhr, Berlin contends Germany cannot pay the sums demanded by France as long as the Germans are deprived of their source of income.

British bankers believe Germany would have considerable difficulty in floating an international loan of $5,000,000 unless it had some guarantee from the allies in addition to the security posted by Berlin. American financiers are not enthusiastic over taking German bonds and a great deal of the money for such a loan would have to come from New York.

New roads, high over the rolling hillsides of Bellehurst Park, are offering an unusual opportunity today for Glendale people to climb above the city into a newly-opened area that will soon become Glendale's finest residence section.

Ever since the first level unit of this magnificent residence park was opened the constant demand has been made on the part of all visitors for property higher up the side of the mountain, either in the level uplands at the very feet of the hillslopes, or on the rolling knolls themselves. Today this chance has come with a bang.

"Tomorrow thousands of visitors will swarm into Bellehurst Park from all parts of the southland, brought here to Glendale's finest section by the tremendous advertising campaign now under way in the big dailies of Los Angeles. This will be the official public opening of the new tract, and it marks a milestone on the forward progress of Glendale," says the company.

Well Worth Visit
It will be well worth a visit to see the crowds and to mark the efficient manner in which the Leimert Company representatives supply information to visitors without in any way bringing about the feeling that immediate purchase is necessary. The crowd will indicate that fact as in the case of the last tract. Then the corners and more desirable lots nearly all went in the first two days. The wise investor will arrive early. Yesterday alone there were over $50,000 in sales before 3 o'clock, when this story was written. Leimert particularly advises Glendale people who want their

Harding Strongly in Favor of Court Plan

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Taking cognizance of reports that the "soft pedal" is to be put upon the international court issue by Republican party leaders, President Harding informed callers late yesterday that he is now more strongly committed to the court issue than ever before, and he plans to deal extensively with this subject on his western tour.

HOUSE PLANS FOR HOME PLANNERS

One Floor Or Two
As Your Needs Are

Artistic Design May Be Changed in Several Ways to Suit Yourself.

It is seldom that we find a house with such an extremely artistic exterior with an interior of wonderfully practical convenience. So often the interior is sacrificed to perfect the exterior. A design is indeed a success when both of these two important features have been combined into one pleasing whole. You will use your imagination for a moment, you will see design built of stucco or field and not an atom of the exterior lost by using either of building materials. In fact, a design as this would be had if built of the dignified. However, we have used the simplest and cheapest of materials in presenting this little to you, and your taste and will help you to solve the problem of just which material is in its construction. We will note in studying the plan that the owner's room is at one side of the house and those of the other members of the family are at the other side. The large living room with a good sized fireplace and ample windows unites the two groups, while the maid's room, pantry and kitchen and the bath occupy the rear portion.

Constructed of any available material, this will prove a delightful home. The second floor need not be finished unless needed. The maid's room becomes a breakfast alcove if you prefer. The porch may be made into another bedroom, or a sleeping porch. The living room is ideal.

Entering from the porch, one finds a room of generous proportions and homelike aspect. This room is drawing room and dining gate-legged table which, with leaves dropped, can be rolled back, between meals, against the wall at the left of the door as one enters—where, with a pair of shining copper candlesticks and a low bowl of flowers, it will have no suggestion of that futile place the dining room usually becomes between meals. How foolish it seems in a small house to set aside one whole room to be used less than three hours in the entire day. How much better to have one gloriously big room to be used all day long!

The balcony opening to the south is not very large, yet ample for a couch and hammock and various suitable furnishings. It also serves as a garden entrance. Supplied with drip awnings it would be a satisfactory sleeping porch as it has wide screens, made interchangeable with glass for different seasons. The closed-in staircase leads to two bedrooms and bath, and an unfinished room for storage. If the lower part of the house is sufficient for present needs, the second story could be left to be finished later, provided the pipe

This house, as may be noticed, is planned for rather more than ordinary plumbing facilities, but as it is all compactly arranged on one side of the house where it is easily accessible to drainage, this fact does not overbalance its comfort and convenience.

The kitchen has been studied with great care. As direct communication with house and cellar, easy stairs have been arranged leading down from an enclosed porch near the kitchen door. The furnace may thus be taken care of by a man, without his having to enter the house. A small elevator or lift at the side of the kitchen door has been placed for convenience in sending up the coal or kindling and sending down supplies. The room under the kitchen should be the housekeeper's joy. It is well lighted and is accessible to the vegetable cellar from a door near by. Such a place is ideal for canning or preserving.

Several alterations could be made in this plan to suit the requirements of different people. For instance, the maid's room, if no maid were needed, would make a charming breakfast room. The side porch could easily be made into another bedroom if one so desired.

The house is 50 feet wide by 30 feet deep; therefore, a small lot could not be chosen upon which to build it—but one would not wish to put so lovely a home on a site which would make it seem crowded, for a splendid setting adds much to any design and to combine beauty in both is to create the ideal.

Having the thought of a charming home in mind, naturally one would imagine the windows supplied with window-boxes and flowers and vines everywhere in evidence. To make it still more attractive there should be a bird bath and convenient seats here and there about the garden.

Since the prices of material and labor vary so materially in different localities, we do not attempt to give an estimate as to costs but suggest that you consult your local builder who can give you detailed information as to the costs of your exact needs to be installed in this design. For information as to procuring of the building plans of this design No. 50, send a stamped and self-addressed envelope to the House Plan Editor, in care of this paper.

gees and vicinity. After he has them leased he sells them to some satisfied tenant or some other person looking for an income investment.

And even the managing director of an Orpheum act playing here this week owns a duplex on Occidental drive in the southern metropolis. He bought it for $10,000, gets $170 a month rent, and boosts Los Angeles like a native, although his home is in Ohio.

There are traveling salesmen, bankers and others who have their headquarters in the north who own Glendale, Los Angeles, Santa Monica or other southern city real estate. Some have little ranches.

One woman employed at the capitol yesterday sold a country lot in the vicinity of Bell. She paid $600 for it. She got $1200. Such stories of good incomes, wonderful profits and opportunity are sending more and more money to the land of promise.

Glendale will do well to advertise more and get some of this gold, also some mighty thrifty citizens.

SUMMIT HEIGHTS TO OPEN SUNDAY

La Crescenta Sites
For Homes Offered
At Low Prices

The opening of the Summit Heights tract, located on Michigan street, at La Crescenta, offers estate investors another opportunity to get aboard in a region making rapid strides along progressive development, according to the owners and advisers, Moore & Moore, of Glendale, who have already established an office on the tract in preparation for the opening tomorrow. Situated at an elevation of 1800 feet, the property lies within easy reach of Los Angeles and other parts of this section, and it is the fact that the lots are so prevalent on the lower levels, that the lots are half an acre, and others are smaller, making ideal sites for homes. The quiet of the hills and the view that is unsurpassed for beauty anywhere in the land. Other advantages of the lots are the presence of stores, banks and churches, the prices that have been paid on the lots are a further incentive. Only thirty of the lots are subject to the early building restrictions.

of prices. The present level is chiefly due to the fact that for several years our industries were busy upon production that added nothing to the necessary equipment of the country.

We were not building dwelling houses or railroad equipment to meet the growing needs of the country, and now we are trying to catch up. One of the reasons why farm products are not on as high a level as others is that the demand for farm products is not cumulative. The fact that consumption is stunted in one year does not make a larger demand in the next year; people do their eating for each year in that year.

This is because the industrial organization is a voluntary one, in which everybody is free to make his own policies, and the business community is prone to go one way or the other with a rush. The movement of prices is largely a matter of psychology; if the idea gets abroad that prices will rise, buying sets in on a scale that may carry them beyond all reason, and on the other hand if the idea spreads that a decline has set in, the market may be over-weighted on the selling side, to such an extent as will carry them far too low. These swings of sentiment and of prices affect production, employment and consumption.

REPORTS BIG GAIN

County Recorder C. L. Logan reports that the number of instruments filed in his office during March totaled 41,830, in comparison with 27,852 in March, 1922, and 21,304 in March, 1921, or a gain of nearly 100 per cent in two years. These figures pertain mostly to real estate transactions and are exclusive of marriage licenses and other incidental filings.

FIFTH CONFERENCE

The "Hi-Jinks" get-together between the Los Angeles and San Francisco realty boards, held at Del Monte this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 4-5 and 6, is the fifth such conference between the two bodies and bodes well for the growing spirit of friendship and co-operation between the southern metropolis and her northern sister, realtors say.

ROSSMOYNE SALES LEAP TO $150,000 IN 2 DAYS

Extra Crews of Engineers Work to Complete the Task of Laying Out Lots to Meet Insistence of Home Seekers

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' worth of property sold in two days is the record of Rossmoyne, the new property which the Haddock-Nibley Company is putting on sale in Glendale. So great has been the demand for this property that it has been necessary to requisition the services of additional crews of engineers, and these are being worked overtime in an effort to stake out lots to meet the present demand.

The layout for the first two units is now practically finished. Streets have been torn through the groves of orange and olive trees fronting on Glendale avenue, and preparations are now being made for the installation of sidewalks and curbing along Glendale avenue. This latter thoroughfare has been widened a distance of forty-five feet, which will give the street for the entire length of Rossmoyne an average width of 125 feet, making it one of the finest boulevards in Southern California. Contracts for two bridges across the Arroyo have also been let, and the pile-driver is now busy on the first of these. The first of the tract houses of Rossmoyne has recently been completed—this sits at the junction of Doran street and Glendale avenue, and follows the Egyptian type of architecture, which is to characterize the other buildings on the tract. Work has also begun on the main administration building. This is located on the east side of Verdugo road and is to be a replica of the temple of Ramesses III. This latter building is being arranged to provide suitable quarters for the sales people of the company, and also suitable retiring rooms for visitors. The temple occupies a commanding eminence, overlooking the major portion of the property. A street is to be opened directly fronting on the temple, which will cross the Arroyo and connect with the present Mountain street, and a scenic road will also be run from Mountain street, encircling the high mesa on the north end of the property.

tion of the Haddock-Nibley Company to permit it to be utilized for this purpose until such time as the improvements have encroached too far upon it.

Rossmoyne is a great natural park, and under the hands of the men who are now handling the same, it will be made into one of the finest residential parks in Southern California. Practically every lot is a full bearing orange grove, supplemented by wonderful live oaks and sycamores. "The beauty of Rossmoyne is that the contour of the land lends itself to any class of homesite desired," said Mr. Haddock, president of the Haddock-Nibley Company, in speaking of the property. "Its gently sloping hills, verdured to their summits, and embowered in trees, present wonderful opportunities for landscape designs; its level lots, and the beauty and fragrance of oranges, are unsurpassed in the world. Then there are depressions that lend themselves readily to sunken gardens and decorations, and the low hills gradually dissolve themselves into magnificent view lots, overlooking the city, and from which glimpses can be caught of Catalina island. For years and years people familiar with this property have been waiting for its development into homesites, and I confidently expect that we will have no great difficulty in disposing of at least two million dollars' worth of homesites in Rossmoyne this present year.

Will Open Canyon
Provisions are also under way for the opening up of Rossmoyne's Canyon to visitors. This, when opened, will prove one of the most popular picnic grounds in Southern California, and it is the intention of the Haddock-Nibley Company to make it a great natural park.

OAKRIDGE OPENS ITS LAST UNIT

Attractive Section Draws a Number of Investors; Include Improvements

The opening of the last unit of Oakridge, announced by the Guillemain Investment Company elsewhere in this issue, is an event that should command the attention of home-seekers and investors alike.

Oakridge is situated in the southeastern section of Glendale, three blocks east on Cypress avenue from Brand boulevard, and from the lots of the last unit, now open to the public, the view is unsurpassed, it being possible to see for miles in every direction—the stately Pacific, the beautiful hills of Griffith Park and Hollywood, the fertile sweep of the San Fernando valley, the rugged contours of Flintridge and Pasadena.

System of Drives
"For years the people have admired these beautiful hills, with their wonderful oak, eucalyptus and holly trees," says Frank Guillemain, of the Guillemain Investment Company, "and it will be a pleasure to them to know that these beautiful hills have at last been opened up. We have designed a system of drives, paths and boulevards that blend into the contour of these gently rolling hills in such a way that no two lots are identical, each having an individuality of its own."

Mr. Guillemain states that all street lights, are included in the price of the lots. The tract office is located at the corner of East Cypress avenue and Oakridge drive.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS SALE TO CLOSE IN FEW HOURS

Every Indication That All Of Lots Will Be Sold Before Close Of Sunday Business;
Price to Be Advanced Next Monday

ATTRACTING the attention of every prospective lot buyer in the city of Glendale, the big wind-up sale of choice, scenic homesites in Suburban Heights, which opened today at 2 p. m., shows every indication of being one of the most heavily attended sales in the past few months. "There is every indication that every single lot that we are offering in this exclusive residential district will be snapped up before the close of Sunday's business," said Harold Blackmore of the Suburban Realty Company. The fact that all lots owned by this company are to be advanced in price $250 after 5 p. m. Monday, doubtlessly has led to the big attendance at today's sale which will be again repeated tomorrow.

"This advance in price is due to the fact that Suburban Heights is today not only classed as the exclusive residential district of Glendale, but is now a well-developed community with all street improvements completed and many magnificent homes erected.

In Class By Itself
"The wonderful panorama of scenery that is viewed from the elevation of Suburban Heights is in a class by itself, overlooking as it does the whole San Fernando valley, Glendale and the wonderful array of fine homes, beautiful gardens and fruit ranches. Transportation is easily accessible. The red cars pass within two blocks of Suburban Heights and the new motor bus lines will run right through our main boulevard. Taking everything into consideration, our big sale of today and tomorrow offers the people of Glendale one of the greatest opportunities of their lives to place a very few dollars into one of the most profitable ventures of their lives.

Many Coming Here
"Thousands are coming to Glendale to live in the next few years, and a big percentage of these people will naturally seek the better class of residential districts wherein to make their homes. These people will pay any price within reason in order to secure a Suburban Heights home-site, consequently today's buyers, at the especially low prices of today, will reap an exceptionally rich reward."
